Bringing old friends and new acquaintances together was what the first annual "Come Together" day was all about. In addition to the traditional dance, the event's sponsor, the Student Body Cabiner, added an afternoon out-of-doors assembly. The Dad's club moved their yearly barbecue to the afternoon of the affair to enhance the feeling of unity. Accompanying these was the first football game which symbolized the "kick-off" of the new school year. "Our goal was to generate enthusiasm and get the students interested in being part of Lincoln," summarized Student Activities Coordinator Barbary Brunner.

The afternoon began with a pep assembly which included a welcome speech given by the new principal, Dr. Colin Karr-Morse. The football game with Estacada came next which, despite the devastating 54-12 loss, didn't seem to deflate the enthusiasm of the students. An extremely successful Dad's Club barbecue followed. "We had enough hamburgers and potato chips to fill up every hungry CARDINAL fan there," laughed Mr. Cameron, Dad's Club President. The dance concluded the day's happenings with four hours of music by "2 minutes 50" and special guest D.J. Dupree Kasey. "The energy was there," recalled Student Body President Tim Spiekerman. "We breathed a sigh of relief and basked in success."

Spirit Week was an excursion from the past to the present. The week tried to generate class unity and enthusiasm. "This may have been the last Spirit Week ever; not many people seemed interested," explained Student Body President Tim Spiekerman about the lack of turnout during the activities. Unfortunately, because of prior commitments, many students seemed unaware that anything was going on. The week began with "Toga Day". Students wore sheets and laurel wreaths, and "Animal House" music was played during lunch. The seniors took an early lead in the class competition after Alex Reverman ate nine bananas in three minutes for a win in the "Banana Eating" contest. "Bananas are great," he laughed. Tuesday was "Sixties Day". Sixties music at noontime provided an atmosphere for students dressed in mini-skirts and as hippies. "Rolling Stones Day" was Wednesday. A few of the group's best known tunes were broadcast in the cafeteria during lunch. On Thursday, music by the Sex Pistols was played to celebrate "Punk Rock Day", and the seniors voted for their Homecoming King and Queen. "Clone Day" wrapped up the week on Friday with victories for the seniors in both the tug-of-war and the hall decorating contests. "It was a little unspirited," observed Senior Class President Tom Hutchins, "but of course the seniors dominated."

Homecoming spirit was set in motion during the "Clone day" pep assembly on Friday, October 16. Once again, the seniors were victorious in the weeks long competition. Assembly highlights included a cheer presented by the football team, and the proclamation that seniors Howard Kennedy and Joelle Rankins had been chosen as Homecoming King and Queen. "It was a great honor and I'm grateful to everyone who voted for me," smiled King Howard. Several class competitions followed. The "Sleeping Bag" race ended in victory for senior Russell Campbell, who crossed the finish line attired in a flannel nightgown. Next came a "Basketball Throw" in which students tried to score points from half court. "My ball was flat," senior Laura Edmiston complained. In the "Egg Walk" the rally played a joke on the football players by blindfolding and leading the tiptoeing team through what they thought was a path of eggs. The Homecoming festivities climaxed with a football game and dance to the music of "The Results". Spirit was high even after a disappointing 28-0 loss to Jefferson in the Civic Stadium. Student Activities Coordinator Barbary Brunner reflected, "The Results of our hard work to get a good band paid off; I think the dance was an excellent end to Spirit Week."

Although poorly attended, the 1981 "Jazz Festival" was a fair success in the eyes of Student Activities Director Mrs. Geraldine Stilwell. "Our major problem was the time slot the "Festival" was in. It was right during the dinner hour and many parents couldn't come," she commented.

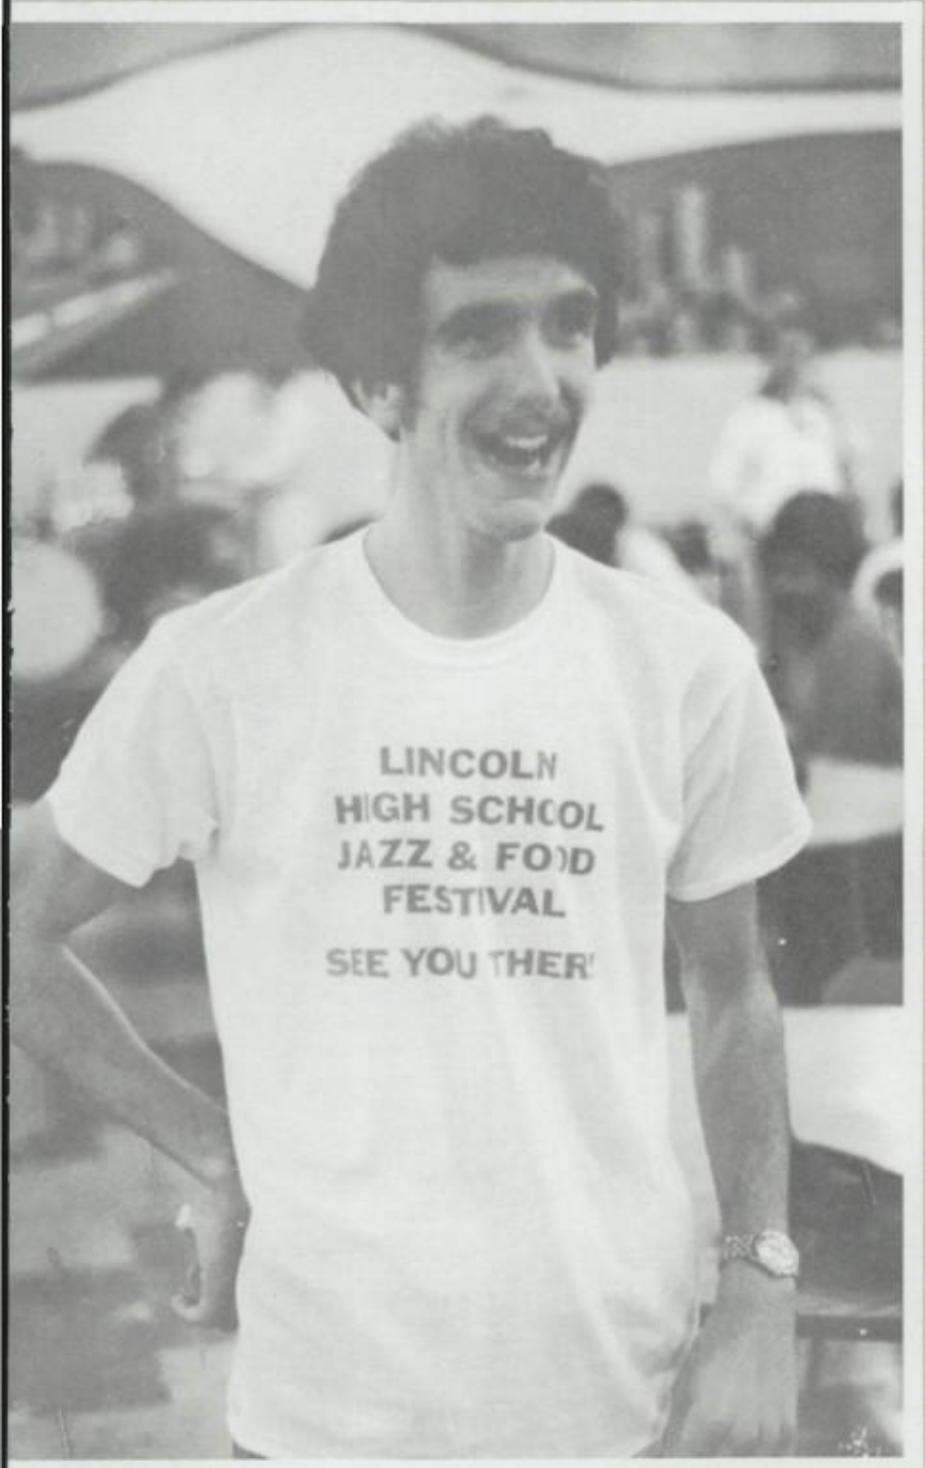

The brain-child of the Student Body Cabinet, the first annual "Jazz Festival" included booths sponsored by the various clubs and organizations which served culinary delights ranging from traditional baked goods to baklava and fresh fruit to tacos. "I was really disappointed that we didn't earn more money," remorsed Russian Club President Ann Kim.

The featured part of the program was, of course, the music. The events centered around the Jazz blues style of the Ron Streen Trio. Led by drummer Ron Streen, the group also included a horn player and a pianist. "I was really glad we were able to get them to play for us," remarked Student Activities Coordinator Barbary Brunner. "They really kept the people there interested and didn't seem bothered by the fact that there were only a few there."

"The jazz was great and the food was delicious," summarized Student Body President Tim Spiekerman. "But where were all the people?"

Winter roses were in full bloom at the December 12th semi-formal sponsored by the Senior Class Cabinet. Due to the lack of time to plan for the event, the dance, traditionally held at Portland State, had to be put on in the cafeteria. "It was a last minute decision to have the dance at all," remarked Senior Class President Tom Hutchins. "I was really surprised how well it came together. I was a little disappointed in the turn turnout, however," he added.

Girl's Representative Amy Leigh speculated that the reason for the weak showing was because it was held in the cafeteria. "There were only about twenty-five couples there, but surprisingly enough it didn't seem deserted. The decorations made it very personal," she observed. "Our biggest worry was trying to make the cafeteria look presentable," laughed Vice-President Mary Brown. "We used fir boughs, red and green streamers, and a tree to create a holiday atmosphere—unfortunately, they wouldn't let us put any lights on it."

Getting a band was another last minute problem encountered by the cabinet. Fortunately, Girl's Representative Sarah Alley was able to contact "Esquire", a jazz fusion band, on the spur of the moment.

"The music and decorations created the mood we wanted," summarized Amy. "I think everyone there had a great time."

Attempting to represent the widest variety of artwork created by the student body was the goal of the Art Show displayed in the main hall during the first week of June. "We wanted to start the tradition of holding a formal display every year to show what the students had accomplished," commented Mrs. Connie Speros-Literal, Art teacher/co-coordinator of the show. "I think people enjoyed the show, and we are hoping it will encourage interest in art classes."

The show coincided with the presentation of the Senior play "GOD" providing the opportunity of maximum exposure to the Lincoln community. The artwork included watercolors, shaded drawings, pottery, photographs, and work in other mediums. "It was refreshing to see the large amount of artwork on display, it livens up the hall," observed Art teacher, Mr. Doug Morren.

The special Senior Honors display featured the works of the top three senior art students; Gail Cannard, David Case, and Dan Doung. Pieces selected for the display were a ceramic cobra, a silkscreen designed for advertising the Art Show and Senior play, and a drawing of Abraham Lincoln. "I felt the artwork represented a majority of the students who show interest in art and wanted to display their efforts," concluded Art instructor/co-coordinator, Mrs. Diane Smith.

Following such productions as Woody Allen's "God", and the musical interpretation of Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew", the 1981 winter concert also contained a production within a production.

This novelty was the drama club's mini-musical, "Twas the night before christmas." Directed by seniors Leslie Gray and Pamela Whitney, the play held the interest of both the student audience during the daytime assembly and the community audience at the annual fundraising production. According to Pamela the kids who took part really enjoyed themselves as well as learning a lot about putting on a skit.

"I was really proud of them," noted Leslie. "They really came through even when they had to do something they didn't want to, like wearing antlers."

The other portion of the program was filled by the ensemble and chorus, who sang traditional holiday carols. The senior ensemble, made up of seniors Laura Michael, Wendy Valkama, Thea Udovick, Gail Cannard, Karie Emlaw, Jerry Brooks, and Harold Brunette sang the accompanying song to the play. The Chorus and band sang and played both Christmas and Hanukkah songs in order to allow everyone to partake of the holiday mood.

Human Relations Week: It's relative. It's relative. It's relative. It's relative. It's relative. It's relative. It's relative. It's relative. It's relative. It's relative.

Commissioner Charles Jordan

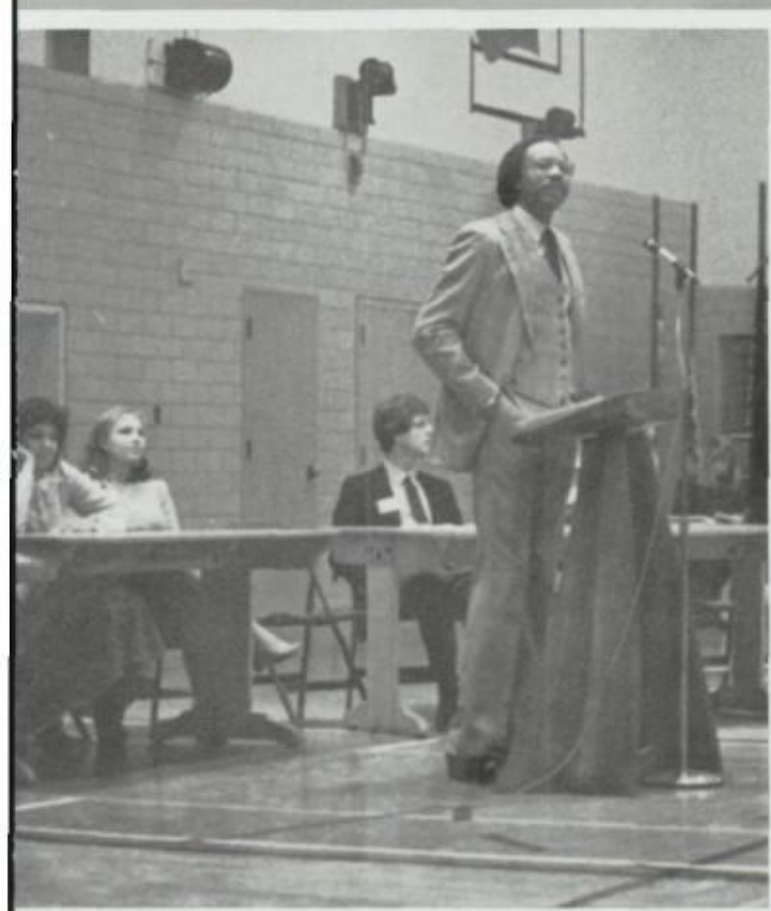

Inter-personal relationships was the problem tackled by school leaders during the first annual "Human Relations" week. Sponsored jointly by the Student Body Cabiner and the I.C.E. (Involvement, Communications, Equality) Club, the week's events sought to break down racial and ethnic barriers and create a better understanding between students.

The week included a Vietnamese martial arts demonstration on Monday; a class volleyball Competition, won by the Senior Class, on Tuesday; a "Find a Friend" competition on Wednesday Thursday; and a staff-student volleyball game on Friday, also won by the seniors. Accompanying these was a week-long display of the work of noted artist Isacc Shamsud-Din.

The central feature of the week was "Human Relations Day". The morning was taken by a speech delivered by commissioner Charles Jourdan and the 40-odd speakers who discussed various areas of Human Relations. The afternoon was filled by a debate on the Draft and Registration.

"I thought it was very successful," noted I.C.E. Club advisor Mr. Tony Hopson. "Not in terms of a long time, but the kids communicated better during the week."

"Although I don't think we (cabiner) changed anybody permanently, but we might have helped change the way someone reacts to other people — and that's what counts," concluded Student Activities Coordinator Barbary Brunner.

Making an entrance

Pink and silver set the mood for the annual "Birthday and Hearts" semi-formal held in the Smith Memorial Hall Ballroom at Portland State University. Adhering to the traditional "Sadie Hawkins" theme, the dance gave girls the opportunity to issue the invitations. Sponsored by the Sophomore class, the event drew over 200 couples thanks to the hard work of the advertising committee headed by Sophomore class Vice President Alice Peters. "We spent a lot of time on the weekends making posters that would interest people in the dance," recalled Alice. "I think our advertising campaign was very successful," she observed.

The decorating, however, was a more difficult task. "We had to blow up over 600 balloons and hang them from the ceiling," laughed Secretary Gail Verdurmen. "The only problem was that they kept popping," she added.

The music of the "Confidentials" helped generate enthusiasm and made the dance a financial success for the Sophomores who earned over 750 dollars for their efforts.

"I thought that it was one of the best dances we've had at Lincoln and that our cabinet did an excellent job in putting it altogether," concluded Sophomore class President Jack Phillips.

May Fête

Queen Carla Williams was crowned at the May Fête assembly May 7 for her service to Lincoln. She reigned at the Junior-Senior prom.

Her court, also selected for their contributions, included Sarah Alley, Sally Bentley, Leslie Bingham, Mary Brown, Nancy Downes, Leslie Gray, and Holly Harrison.

Twenty-five faculty members, students, and community members were "dubbed" knights and ladies of May Fête at the assembly.

"May Fête honors people who have given a lot of their time for things that they never really get credit for," said Lisa Smith, Linc Service Club president. Linc was in charge of the May Fête assembly last year.

The May Fête court and queen were chosen by the senior class from a list of 26 girls "carefully selected by Linc and several Lincoln teachers on the basis of leadership of contributions to Lincoln," explained Lisa.

The knights and ladies were selected by Linc and Mrs. Geri Stilwell, student activities coordinator, on the same basis as the court.

Master of ceremonies was senior Howard Kennedy. Sophomore Cindy Spiekerman provided the entertainment at the assembly with her after-dinner speech on television programming.

Two separate assemblies were held for May Fête because of the new mandatory assembly policy which required everyone to attend the assemblies.

"Imagine all the People" was the theme chosen for the 1982 Junior/Senior Prom, sponsored by the junior class cabi-ner. Close to 165 couples made appear-ances at the Prom held in the Smith Memo-rial Ballroom at Portland State University.

Couples entered the ballroom by walk-ing on a red carpet through hanging silver stars, and past flowers arranged on roman columns. The decorative pink and white balloons with the theme imprinted on them became mementos of the evening along with the scroll prom bids. Prom-goers danced to the music of the band "Sequel". "The band was too hard rock for a prom, but I thought it turned out to be a success-ful prom, anyway," commented Junior Class President Mary Ann Reilly.

There was a real diversity in attire as couples appeared in outfits ranging from the traditional tuxedos and long formals to a pair of mimes. "It was a fun prom, everyone was all dressed up, doing their own thing, and having a terrific time," noted senior Ginger Smith.

The clear, spring evening made for a more enjoyable evening as many couples extended planned activities to include a walk in the Rose Gardens, limosine tours of the city, and trips to the beach. "It was a wild one," summed up senior Chris Gram.

The popular Spring concert gave the music department the opportunity to display its many talents. Held May 20th in the auditorium the annual affair was enjoyed by an attentive audience of parents and students. "Spring Song" was the 1982 theme for the production which featured the fifty member band, a saxophone quartet, the choir, and the ensemble.

The collaboration of efforts between Band Director Glenn Fernely and Choir Director Joyce Anderson resulted in a well balanced mixture of instrumental and vocal talent that highlighted the evening. "The band has improved a lot and performed very well at the concert," remarked Mr. Fernely.

The thirty-five member choir performed two selections from the musicals "The Sound of Music" and "Oklahoma". The songs "Fame", "Galaxy Nine", and "Coronation March" were among the numbers played by the band. "Attending the concert was something different to do, I thought the theme from 'Fame' was really good," commented Senior Susan Wilson. The nine member ensemble sang Paul Simon's "Bridge over Troubled Water" in addition to its other numbers.

"It was rewarding after working so hard on the concert for so long that it turned out so well; everyone seemed to have had a good time," summed up Wendy Valkama, Ensemble member.

For the first time in three years, a talent show was put on to give students the opportunity to express themselves in their own unique ways.

Two hour-long performances were given to the student body during specially scheduled assemblies and an evening show was presented to the community.

Junior Kirt Danner emceed the act ranging from classical guitar, to the "Pop", to the Senior Girl's Dance. About thirty senior girls sang and danced to the song "We Go Together" from the movie-musical GREASE. The girls donned their circa-1950's attire, and, according to leader Sally Bently, "had a great time."

In an effort to help revive interest in drama and have a good time, the senior class presented Woody Allen's comedy GOD.

Twenty students were involved in the one-act production directed by senior Jessica Montgomery and her assistant, Sarah Alley. The three principle actors were Kristie Clevinger, David Rutsala, and Graham Sheldon, all of whom had had previous acting experience, with the exception of Sheldon.

In spite of the religious connotations of the play's title, it had little to do with religion. According to Rutsala, the play was a spoof on the scripts that dealt with the subject of reality.

Most people don't realize what an important part of the sports program rally is. These girls work very hard to keep up team morale and school spirit.

"Rally involved a lot of effort and cooperation on everyone's part and even though that didn't always happen, the season went well. But like always, school spirit and dedication was lacking!" commented rally member Wendy Valkama. Tammy Nelson felt "It was fun getting to know and work closely with everybody and we enjoyed doing things for the football team other than just cheering, like the pizza party. The fighting and competition got to me sometimes, though. I thought doing our pep assembly was really fun!" Activities director, Mrs. Geri Stilwell, who helped the rally prepare the assembly thought "It was the best assembly I've seen in years!" The girls also organized the Homecoming dance. "There was an incredible turnout and the Results were great!" exclaimed senior Ginny Murphy. "I loved cheering in the rain, but Oregon wasn't being itself this season and we only had two rainy games! The football team was very supportive and the coaches thanked us for our efforts. Being appreciated made even our losses worthwhile," rally member Jenefer DeKoning reflected.

"At Lincoln, girls' soccer must always be brute intelligence bearing brute strength: it's a matter of remembering to think while moving your feet."

The varsity girls soccer team boasted only five juniors and seniors, however, the young team finished the season with an impressive 8-2-1 record.

Their youth and inexperience prevailed as Barlow defeated the Cards 8 to 0 in the opening round of the state play-offs. The girls were also disappointed by a 1-0 loss to Wilson, in a game that determined the city's number one spot in the state play-offs. "Either team could've won," claimed coach Sally Scholz, "but Wilson got a break."

Team captains were junior Susie Jensen and senior Leslie Bingham. According to Jensen, "We were inexperienced this time, but watch out next year!"

Coach Scholz agreed, "The outlook for next year is real good. The girls will be stronger not only physically but emotionally."

Cited as outstanding players were sophomore Jenny Kennedy, juniors Quinland Porter, Lisa Wash, Susie Jensen, and senior Leslie Bingham. Coach Scholz praised freshmen Hana Wong, Ashley Griffin, and Beth Knoll for their hard work and improvement.

"I'm looking forward to next year and the year after," concluded coach Scholz.

"There is an old English saying: Soccer is a game for gentlemen played by ruffians, (and rugby is a game for ruffians played by gentlemen). At Lincoln we try to make soccer a gentlemen's game played by gentlemen."

"The team had a great amount of fighting power that is unusual to Lincoln athletes," claimed coach Dave Nicholas. This fighting power was apparent as the Varsity boys soccer team finished the season with an 8-2 record.

The two losses to Wilson and Marshall were disappointing. "The Marshall game summed up the frustration of the season; we outplayed them, but it was one of those days where it was not meant to be," remarked coach Nicholas.

The team consisted of mainly sophomores and juniors and boasted only three seniors. Because of this, the team made some mistakes due to lack of experience.

Goalie Doug Brecht, midfielder David Faville, and forward Chau Trong were cited as three outstanding players. Most Improved players were Rick Montgomery, Tim Murphy, and Tim Conroy. "Their improvement over last year was very noticeable," noted coach Nicholas.

Team captain Neil Blair praised Nicholas. "We really had a great coach," he commented. "It's unfortunate that we lost our last game, but I think we had a successful season."

Midfielder Eric Semler projected, "It was a pretty upsetting season since we didn't make the playoffs, but we'll be back next year!"

Depth of ability and an outstanding record, building enthusiasm, a positive attitude, and a strong offense helped make it a good season.

With freshman goalie Samantha Durst contributing most of the goals, the J.V. girls soccer team managed a 5-4-2 record for the season.

"They were a real positive team, and always seemed to come back in the second-half," said Coach Doug Morten proudly. "The enthusiasm kept building and building," he added.

The girls had a very strong offensive front and outscored their opponents 30 goals to 15 goals. Coach Morten, however, felt the defense was a little weak.

Sophomore Karen James had a good time. "It was muddy, but fun!" she laughed.

Although there wasn't a team captain, junior Andrea Myer was cited for leadership. Most Improved player: freshman Michelle Pitkin. Outstanding players: freshmen Laurie Sheldon and Samantha Durst.

The boys J.V. soccer team finished the season with an outstanding 10-2 record. According to Coach Dana Stilwell, all the players had good attitudes, were cooperative and willing to learn.

The two losses were to Wilson and the Cards gave their all in both games. "Despite the fact that we lost, we really played well," claimed Coach Stilwell. One key game was against Roosevelt. The Cards were one goal behind and in the last five minutes of the game, junior Mark Landauer kicked in a goal for the win.

Coach Stilwell felt the entire team had a lot of depth and there wasn't a big difference in ability between the substitutes and the regular players. For this reason, he felt it was too difficult to single out only a couple of outstanding players. Team Captains were David Wesche and Paul Jensen. Cited as Most Improved players were Keld Bangsberg and Darin Parr.

"To paraphrase Caesar, 'They came, they ran, they conquered.'"

Led by the team's top runner, freshman Laura Landauer, the girls varsity cross country team dominated once again.

The cards swept both city and dual meet competition, and according to coach Dave Bailey, "Everything clicked when it should have — at the city meet." Senior Ginny Murphy agreed, "After seeing the younger runners compete in the city meet, I'm sure that next years team will continue to uphold Lincoln's reputation."

After being crowned dual and city meet champions, the team traveled to the state meet in Eugene. Representing the Cards were Landauer, who finished 11th; seniors Sally Bentley, Ginny Murphy, & Denise Sachs; and sophomores Alice Peters, Kelly O'Connor, and Sheila Ater.

Although the team will lose three strong seniors, coach Dave Bailey's outlook for next year is positive. "It will be a rough act to follow, but with such an outstanding J.V. team, it would appear that Lincoln's continuing domination of the PIL is assured," he noted confidently.

"We run to lift our spirits and to cleanse our minds and bodies of life's impurities."

Hard training during the week and weekend paid off for a "Young and restless" varsity boys cross country team.

The Cards finished the season with a 9-2 record. However, their 4th place finish in the district meet failed to qualify them for the state meet.

According to Coach Dave Bailey, the team was made up of an outstanding group of young runners paced by some experienced seniors. "It was a mixture of experience and hard work, which made it a good season," commented Russell Campbell, who Coach Bailey cited as the top senior runner.

Coach Bailey is looking forward to another promising season next year. The young team is losing only one of its' top seven runners: Campbell who is graduating.

Sophomore Jay Schleuning was cited as the team's outstanding runner, and senior Dan Moore was dubbed Most Inspirational.

Coach Dave Bailey

J.V. Boys

Following the example set by the Varsity Cross Country team, both the boys' and girls' j.v. teams went undefeated throughout the regular season. The girls' led by Sophomores Stephanie Kalez and Mary Massengale, won the South Salem Invitational, beating seventy-eight other schools. The boy's team, led by city champion Paul Biskar, took the city trophy with ease.

According to Coach Bailey, "The youth of this year's team is what I am looking forward to next year."

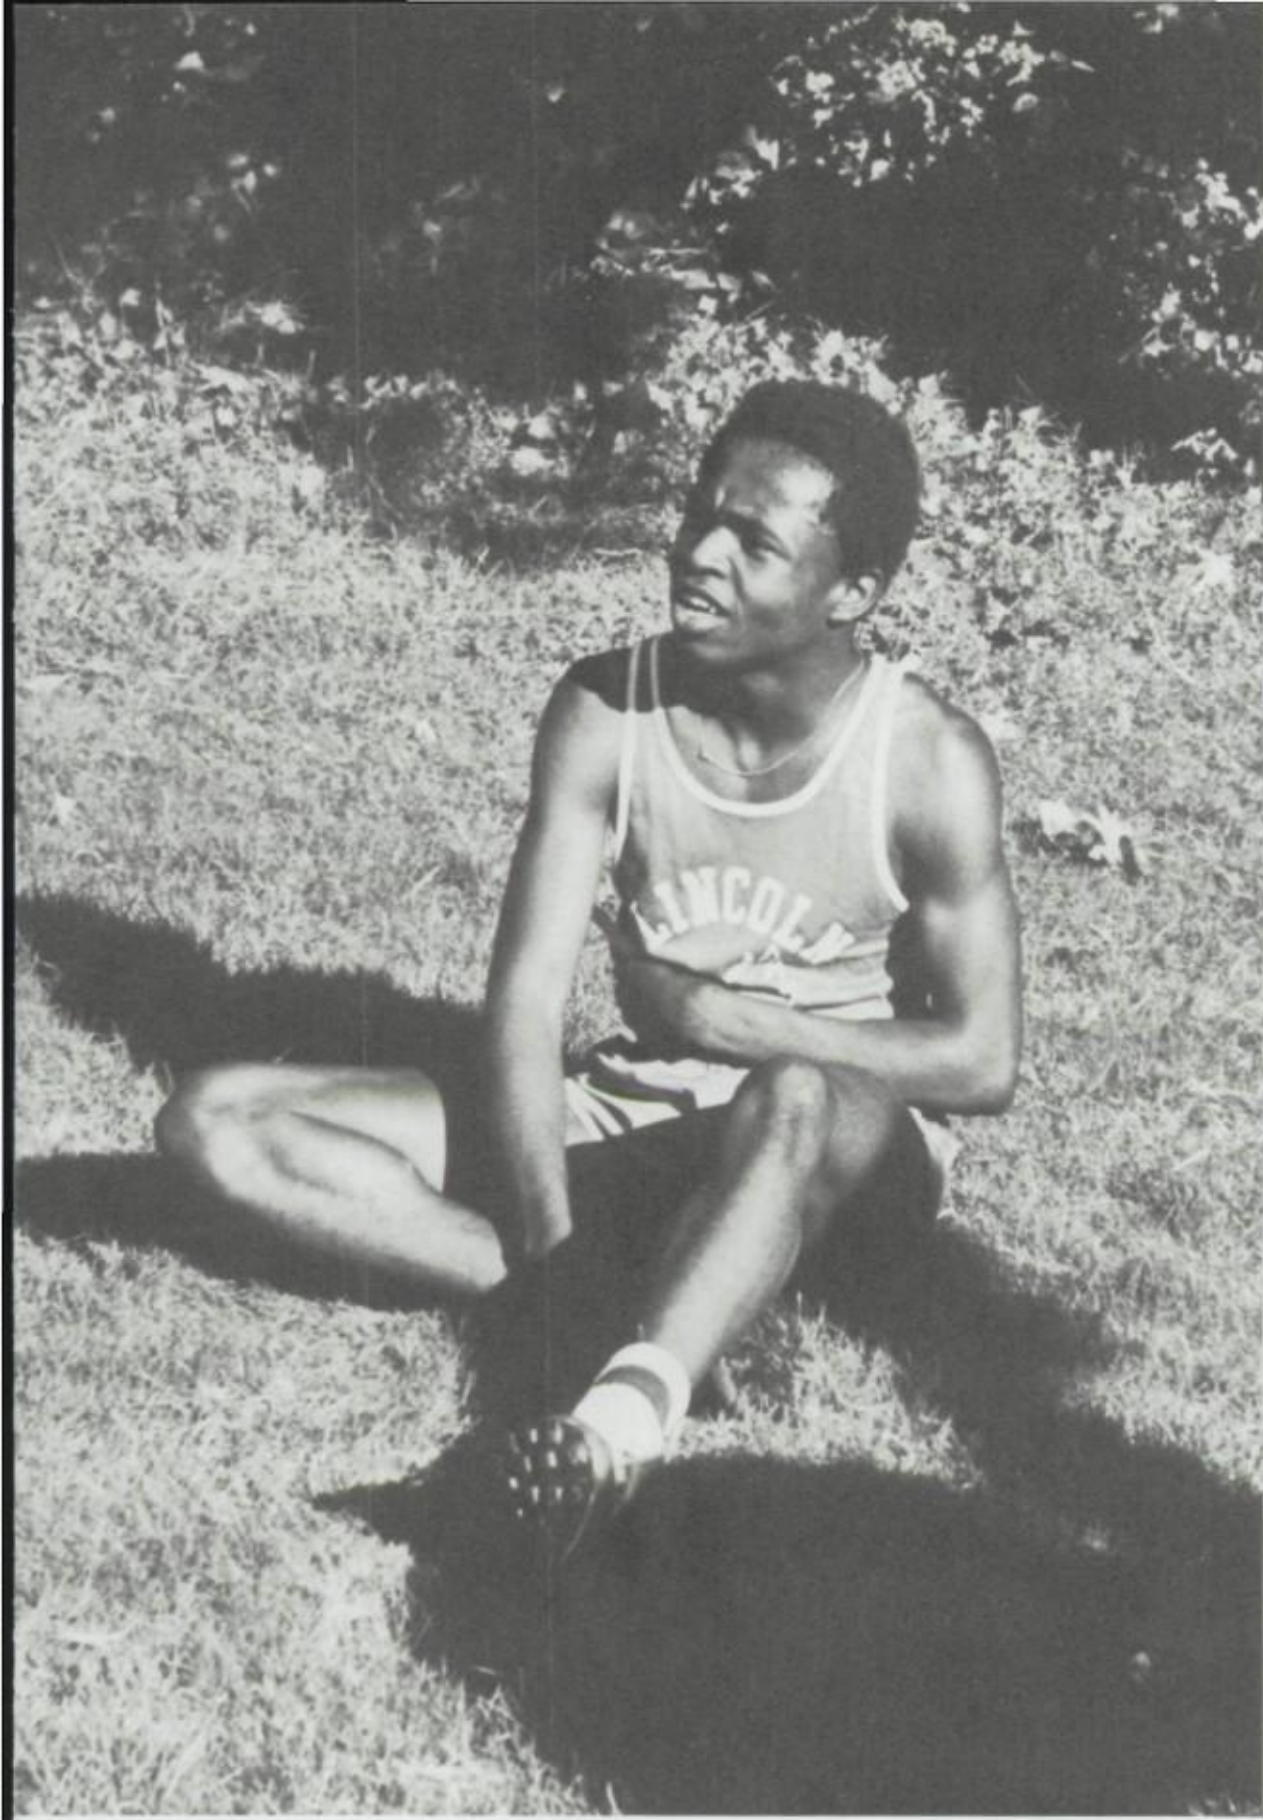

"We worked together to make it a great season," noted Mary Massengale.

Balance and talent were the two words that Coach David Bailey used to describe the Freshman Cross Country squad, who went undefeated in regular season.

A large turnout helped to make the freshman team a strong one, with Kevin DeGarmo, Fred Bird, and Steve Peloquin cited as the top contributors.

"I am looking forward to next year with all those people returning for J.V. or Varsity," noted Coach Bailey.

"Being on the freshman team was great experience for me," commented DeGarmo. "I'm looking forward to next year."

"I'm really looking forward to next season. We have a lot of good young players and they should help us rebuild. But I also want to express gratitude and wish this year's seniors the best."

"If you have faith in yourself and prepare, eventually something good will happen," stated Coach Ron Hudson.

Unfortunately, "something good" happened only once for the varsity football team. The Cardinals won their first league game against Roosevelt 8 to 0. Senior Steve Briggs made the touchdown and Cam Fajer ran for two more points. According to Coach Hudson, everyone played well.

However, the team failed to win another game and finished the season with a 1-7 record.

According to coach Hudson, one of the contributing factors was lack of participation. "They were good kids, but there weren't a lot of them", he commented.

Senior William Hergenhan agreed. "We had talent but we could never seem to get it together as a team."

Seniors John Shelton, Steve Briggs and Howard Kennedy were cited as the three outstanding players. Matt Sichel was dubbed Most Improved player.

"Basically, they got some game time and were able to get experience for next year," said coach Ron Hudson in reference to the J.V. football team.

Due to lack of players the team failed to unite early enough in the season. They were able to play only three games, and ended the season with a disappointing 0-3 record. However, they did gain experience and insight about the game.

Many of the members played in the varsity games also. According to junior Todd Harris the experience was helpful. "I'm glad I was able to play on the varsity level because I think I'll be better prepared for next year."

Sophomore Olaf Holm and junior Dawn Shelton were cited as the Most Valuable players. Most Improved player was sophomore Matt Wood.

Hard work and spirit were what the freshman football team was made of. They finished the season with a 3-4 record.

According to coach Mark Paul, they improved more and more each week. The young Cards won their last two games against Jackson and Marshall. In both games they came from behind for a victory.

Against Marshall, they were down 12 to 14 at half-time, then came back to win the game 26 to 14. "The last two games really showed their spirit, determination and enthusiasm," remarked coach Paul.

Unable to cite out one player as Most Valuable, coach Paul cited these five players: Freshmen Tim Moen, Mike Kolander, Steve McKinnon, Mike Spicer, and Eddie Regory. The two most Improved players were Paul Cook and Eric Fuller.

"The Girl's Varsity Volleyball team exemplified the most important characteristics of any team effort: Hard work, dedication, and a willingness to learn."

"It could've been better, but it could've been worse," remarked Coach Greg Lundr in reference to the Varsity Volleyball team. The girls finished the season with a 4-4 league record.

According to Coach Lundr, the best game was against Wilson. The Cardinals didn't win, but played well as a team and put forth a great deal of effort. Senior Linda Bennett agreed, "As a team we worked well together."

The state play-off game was disheartening. On that day, "The girls played their hearts out. We had them, but it just got away," Coach Lundr remarked.

The team captains were Liz Hodges and Molly Duffy. Kristin Neupert and Molly Duffy were cited as Most Valuable players. According to Coach Lundr, all of the players improved steadily as the season progressed and he was unable to cite just one Most Improved player.

The JV volleyball team finished the season with a strong 13-6 league record. The team consisted of mostly sophomores, with many juniors alternating from JV to Varsity. Junior Tory Hawkins went from the JV to Varsity team and felt she gained a lot of experience.

According to coach Debbie McFarland, all the girls worked well together. "The reason we had a fairly successful season was the way the girls helped each other out," she commented.

The outlook for next year is good, with so many returning sophomores, and all those who will move up from the freshman team next year. According to sophomore Krissy Harrison, "We did pretty good this year and I'm really looking forward to next year."

The freshmen volleyball team was made up of spirit and skill. The young Cards' finished the season with an outstanding 7-2 record.

Although they were freshmen, according to Coach Jean Cheshire, many of them came with skills already learned. "We worked on these skills and the girls improved greatly."

One of the most exciting games was against rival school Wilson. The girls were behind 0 to 1, then tied it at 1-1, and finished the game with a 2-1 win.

Coach Cheshire looks forward to next year. "I'm really optimistic," she said, and with good reason. The turnout was a large 22 and she feels there will be just as many next year. "The kids all have good attitudes and that helps," she added.

Lisa Herring was cited as the outstanding player, and Missy Child, Most Improved.

"Rally means promoting school spirit and this year I have had the opportunity to work with some enthusiastic young ladies dedicated in doing so."

"Who is on rally?" was the perplexing question most frequently demanded of the six girl squad which retained four original members: Cindy Blachly, Jodi Reese, Ginger Smith, and Carla Williams; then added alternate Fawn McDaniel and former Washington/Monroe rally member Alyssa Bares.

The squad attended eighteen games and completed over 250 small locker signs during the season. The rally held bake sales, worked in the "Grit Shack", and sold Halloween candy-grams to raise money for two cheerleading workshops they attended and to take the Varsity Boys' Basketball team out to pizza at the end of the season. "The hardest objective to overcome besides getting students to come to the games was sitting on Ginger's shoulders without being scared of heights," laughed Carla.

"We organized a Winter Sports assembly to boost school spirit for the teams," reflected Ginger. "A highlight of the assembly for me was announcing the winners in the 'Sexy Legs' contest we put on with the help of the Varsity Boys' Basketball team" she added.

"Rally was a great learning experience; we worked hard, got along well in the process, and had a lot of fun cheering," Fawn summarized.

We've got spirit, yes we do! We've got spirit, how about you?

The Pep Band and the Pep Club provided support and a cheering section for a variety of sporting events throughout the school year.

The Pep Club started by electing officers; choosing Joelle Rankins as President and Fawn McDaniel as Secretary. Ms. Gerry Foote, Basic Skills teacher, served as club advisor. The club had over twenty supporting members who promoted spirit by making posters and encouraging students to attend athletic events. "The best time for involvement was in the fall, we had great turnouts for football games," related President Joelle Rankins.

The Pep Band was successful, providing entertainment at Football and Basketball games. The group performed in the Winter and Spring concerts and played during the Zoo bus dedication ceremony. "It was a developing year and we had a lot of fun at the games when everyone showed up," noted President Rick Schwanz. A highlight for the fifty member band was marching in the Starlight parade. "I've been here three years and the band keeps getting better," concluded Mr. Glenn Fernely, Band Director.

Held to encourage school spirit for Fall and Winter sports, pep assemblies offered entertainment and a break from the school routine. The Varsity Fall Rally held its assembly on the field before the first Football game of the season against Estracada. The Pep band played "Lincoln Loyalty" as the rally performed a dance routine and taught two new cheers, "Superstars" and "Hey, you Cardinals", to the crowd. "We needed more assemblies that were better organized and involved more students," commented squad member Tammy Nelson.

The Winter Sports assembly, held in the gym, introduced the student body to the Winter athletic teams. Presented and emceed by the Varsity Winter rally, the assembly included speeches by the coaches and a pyramid cheer performed by the rally. Highlighting the assembly was the announcement that Varsity Boys Basketball Team members: Anthony Fulmer, John Shelton, and Pernell Brown had placed first, second, and third, respectively in the "Sexy Legs" contest promoted during the week. All received certificates of achievement.

"We had fewer assemblies, but they were quite successful," concluded Mrs. Geraldine Stillwell, Student Activities Director.

"The true winners find positive reflections in the face of adversity."

"It was definitely a rebuilding year," remarked Coach Tony Hopson in reference to the Girls Varsity Basketball Team. The Cards finished the season with a disappointing 0-8 record.

However, the team did improve over the first half of the season when other teams were outshooting the Cards by 20 to 30 shots.

Senior star Liz Hodges agreed. "We really did improve the second half of the season, and despite our record we still managed to have a good time."

According to Coach Hopson, the team lacked height and that one dominant player needed in crucial games. The Cards came closest to that player with second team All-League Hodges.

Cired as next years team leaders, juniors Susie Jensen and Joann Scott were named All-League Honorable Mention by the PIL coaches.

Coach Donna Green

The Freshman Girls Basketball team got a Lincoln alumni for a coach, Ms. Donna Green. "It was just coincidental to get a job here; I haven't been back since I graduated in 1970," she added.

Coach Green was a fundamentals builder according to Laura Landauer, who, according to Coach Green, "makes my team hustle; she makes them run."

Coach Green had a very successful season with an impressive 10-3 record and a very knowledgeable team.

"I was a demanding coach," explained Coach Green, "I make them give me 100 per cent of themselves." She adds with a smile, "I'm very proud of them."

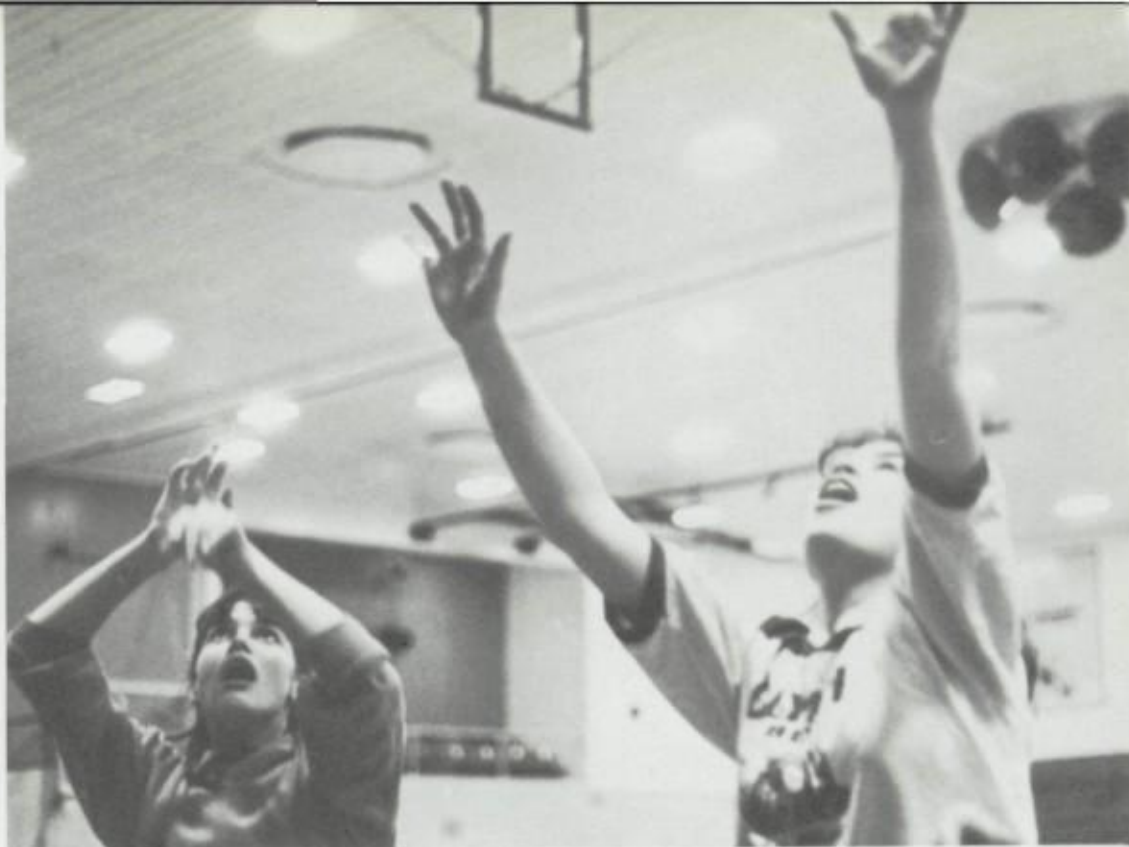

"I've been generally accepted by both the student body and the faculty," Coach Green said. "It's great to fit in with people who used to be my teachers," she added with a smile.

The J.V.'ers, whose record slipped to 1-3, played tough but not tough enough, according to freshman Lisa Hering.

"The whole team has been playing well. They exceeded my expectations," said Coach Bon Temps, who previously coached at Washington/Monroe.

"We played really well as a team, however, we didn't have enough individual strength," commented Ashley Griffin.

"Bon Temps was a terrific coach," began Page Morgan, "He worked us hard but it was worth it because we gained valuable experience needed to play varsity basketball."

"This was a frustrating year for all of us because the ability was there but it seems as though the game was more important to our opponents than it was to us. They would find a way to win it and we would find a way to lose it."

The varsity boys' basketball team's record of 1-7 definitely doesn't show how the revitalized Cards played.

According to Coach Tom Thomas, "We were in all the games until the last." The team lost by less than five or has games go into over-time six times during the entire season. Coach Thomas contributed the teams failure to capitalize in these close situations to anxiety caused by a lack of past success.

"I felt that in regards to win-loss that we would do better," Coach Thomas commented. "In regards to competitiveness, we were better than the last couple of years," he added.

The teams one win was against Jackson in a double over-time.

Coach Thomas cited senior Steve Briggs as the most valuable player. Most Improved were Anthony Fullmer and Andy Dewolfe. Kirt Danner was dubbed Most Inspirational.

Although the team will lose seven seniors, Coach Thomas is looking forward to working with the "best quality freshmen" since the start of his four-year coaching term at Lincoln.

Lack of comeback ability and youth renders a somewhat disappointing season.

According to Coach Mark Paul, the Boys Freshmen Basketball team was, "A crowd pleasin' team." The young Cards finished the season with a strong 9-4 league record.

The offense was their most potent weapon, according to Coach Paul. "We were very good offensively and we had a lot of players who could put it in the hole," he commented. However, they did lack a strong defense. "We were so concerned with our offense that our defense had a tendency to rest," explained Coach Paul.

Cited as the outstanding players were Jerrell Spires, Rob Johnson, Don Hines, Ned Hastings, and Ryan Nolte, who was later moved up to the varsity level.

The Boys JV Basketball team, hindered by youth, had a somewhat disappointing season. The Cards finished with a 9-10 league record.

However, they did manage to win their last two games against Marshall and Roosevelt. According to Coach Earl Chaney, the team didn't have that desperately needed comeback ability. "But," he added, "We did have a lot of togetherness and worked very well as a team." Junior Todd Harris agreed, citing their best display of team work in the pre-season game against Redmond, which they won by two points.

According to Coach Chaney, the outlook for next year is excellent. With 11 sophomores and freshmen returning from this year's squad, the team should be a success.

"They said it couldn't be done, a PIL team without a swim pool win the state meet. We learned to listen to ourselves to reach goals seemingly out of our reach and expect to gain them. We did. We won the state meet. Only one team can say that and Lincoln will be that team for some time to come.

The swimmers can only be referred to as winners, and the teams season; a splashing success. The girls' captured the state crown, putting an end to David Douglas' 15 year reign as champs. The boys clinched the city title and finished a respectable 13th in the state meet.

The results were as follows: Five consideration All-Americans, one automatic All-American, one state record, three individual state champs, 12 state participants, and to top it all off, one state trophy.

The state record was broken by the young 200 yard medley relay team, consisting of freshmen Michelle Donahue, Jenny Shannon, and sophomores Mary Massengale and Ana Thompson.

For the boys' team sophomore Alex Stiles won the 500 meter free-style with a time that qualified him for All-American consideration.

Coach Don Austin cited each and every swimmer as an outstanding performer. Seniors honored by him were Toby Rapp, Amy Leigh, Tory Jelderks, Taffy Williams, and Karen-Marie Reilly.

According to Coach Austin, the outlook for the next few years is excellent. "Lincoln will be within the top teams for at least the next six years," he predicted confidently.

Scores don't indicate overall performance to saw on—the only way to go is up.

Besides rough competition, the wrestling team had to overcome a poor turnout, injuries, and loss of wrestlers due to ineligibility because of low grades.

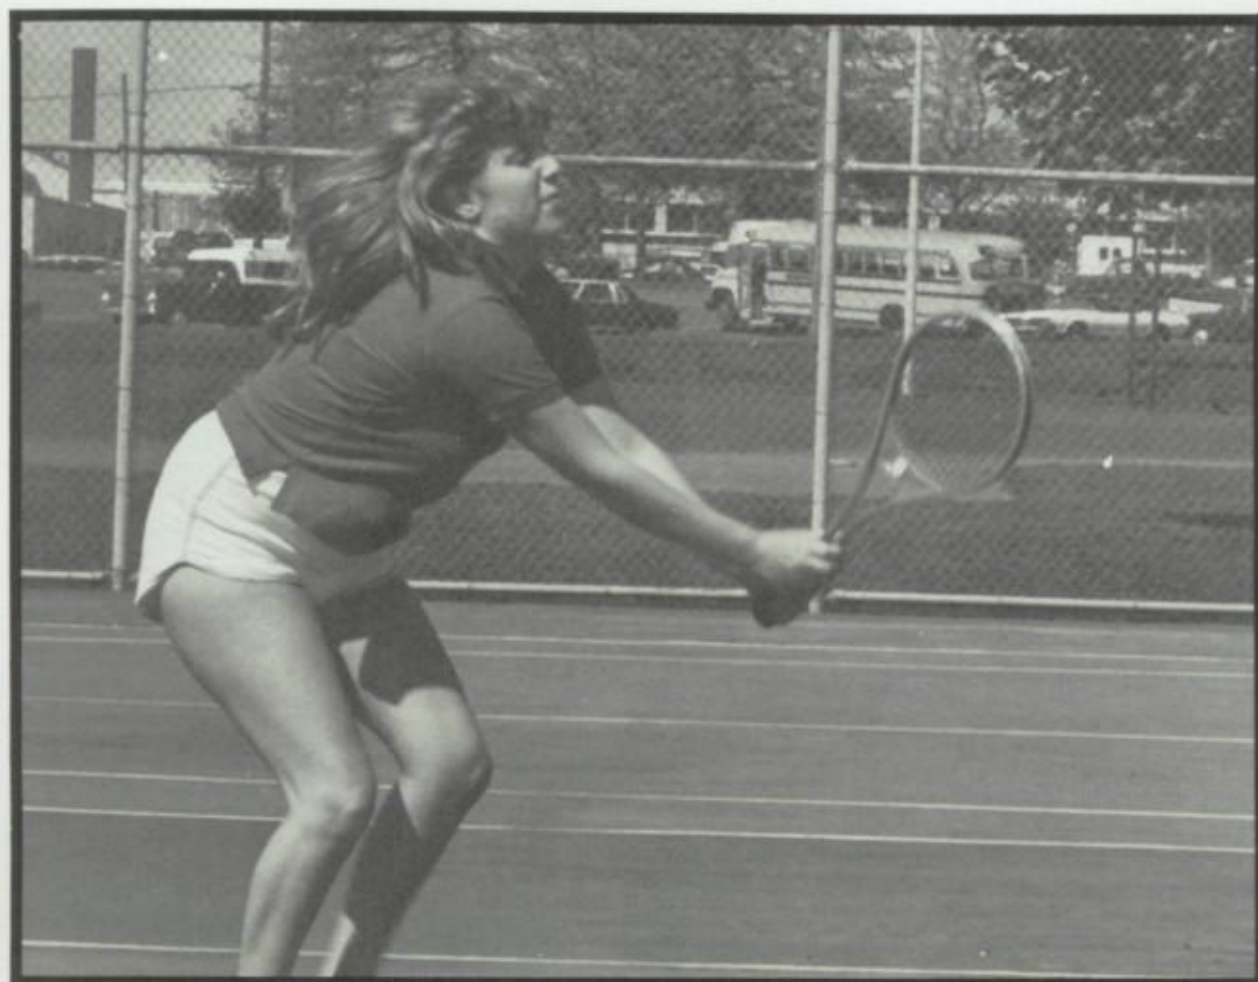

Despite these obstacles, the Cards managed to come from the bottom of the PIL with a 1-18 record and took the top four positions at the city tournament.

Freshman Eric Griffith won the position of champion, Senior Joe Galati placed second, junior Jaime Daigle placed third, junior Brian Blachly and senior Michael Gann both placed fourth.

Galati and Griffith then traveled to the state tournament, but failed to place.

According to Gann, their performance at the city tournament was the best the team has done in his four years of wrestling at Lincoln. However, it did have its disappointments. "If we'd had the breaks we could've sent two more people to state," he commented.

"It was a great one!" exclaimed the new Girl's Tennis Team Coach, Mr. Doug Morten. "I haven't worked with any of the girls yet, I'm just getting to know them," he explained.

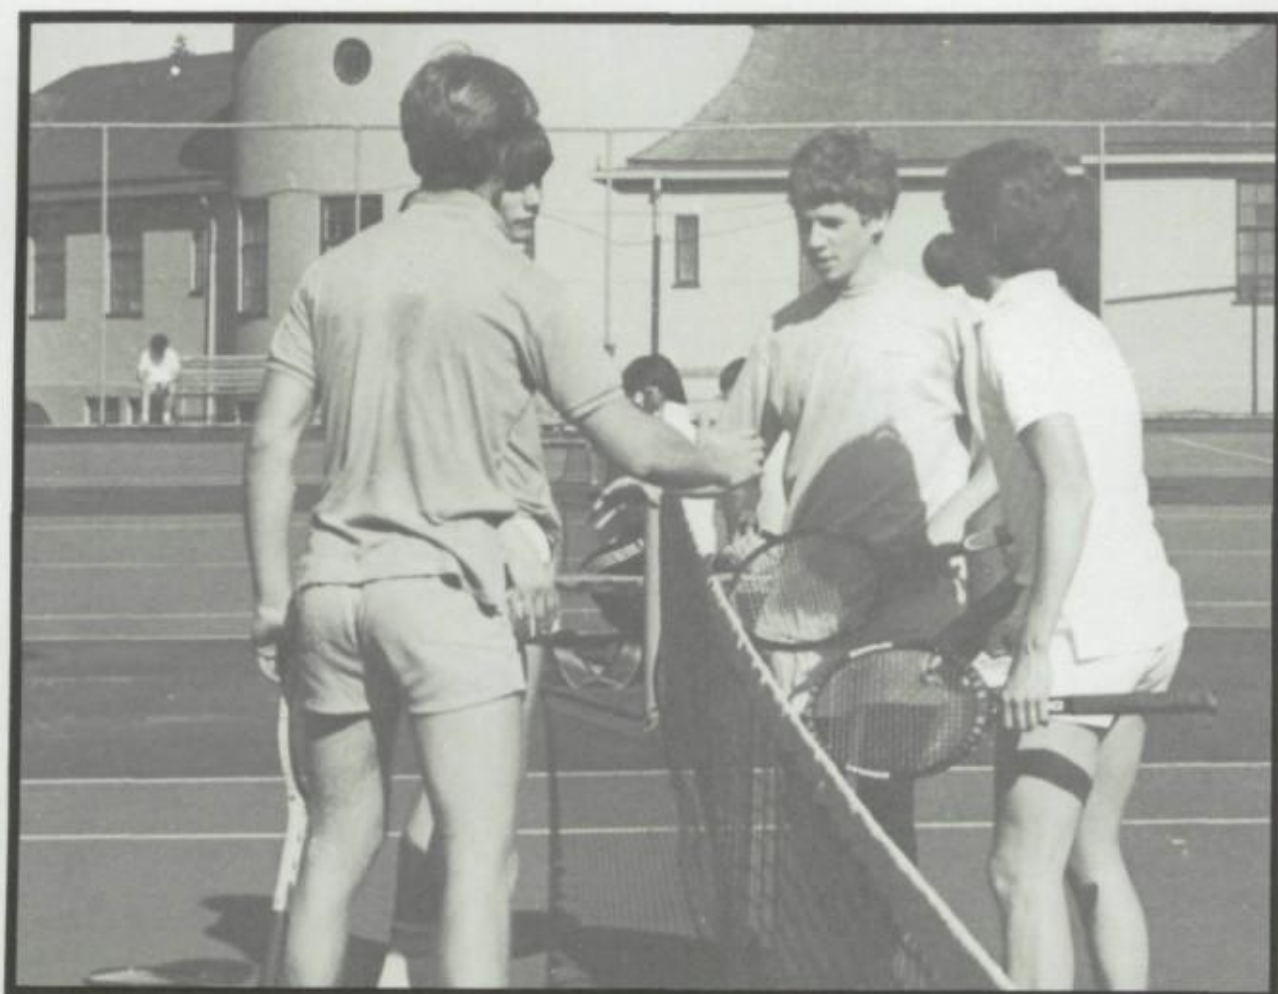

The girl's team consisted of District Singles Champion, Sarah Leigh, runner-up, senior Leslie Bingham, Doubles Champions, Junior Julie Bonime and Sophomore Whitney Nye, and runners up, Seniors Dana Director and Kristen Neupert.

Others cited for their outstanding play in district competition were Sophomore Alice Peters and her partner Erika Werschkul, placing third in Doubles, and Freshman Susan Parrish, placing third in Singles.

In the State playoffs the Bonime Nye duo was eliminated in the quarter finals, while Bingham was defeated in the second round.

The final state competition left the girls in fifth place.

"The boys had a good chance of winning state," according to coach Doug Morton, "however it came down to the draw, and they took 6th in state."

The boys playing in the singles District meet placed as follows: junior John Spencer, district champ. and senior Johan Sandberg runner-up. As for doubles, freshman Ned Hastings and senior Chris Gram were the district champs, and seniors David Minns and Tom Brimm and runners-up.

Junior Jon Breedlove, placed fourth in singles, and DeWolfe tandem of sophomore Beezer and junior Andy placing third in doubles.

In state play, John Spencer was eliminated in the quarter-finals. Ned Hastings and Chris Gram were taken in the quarter finals in doubles. And David Minns and Tom Brimm were defeated after the first round. The boys finished the season with a sixth place in state competition.

Beezer DeWolfe, Stuart Rosenfeld, Tom Brim, Johan Sandberg, Chris Gram, John Spencer, Mark Landauer, Ned Hastings, David Minns, Jack Phillips, Corey Buffo, James Horniman, Alex Rivas, Joe Akhavein.

Coach Earl Chaney

"We had people peak towards the end, and that's what it's all about"

Although some of the scores seemed more like football scores than varsity softball scores, the team had a "good season" despite the 2-17-1 record, according to first year Coach Earl Chaney.

"You have to meet things as they come," he observed. "It was a real change after coaching a boys' team."

The practices began in the gym due to rain, and according to junior Tory Hawkins, "I don't like it because it doesn't seem like we're getting that much out of it."

"The girls gave 110 percent and I am really pleased with their efforts," remarked Coach Chaney.

"We were constantly improving all season," he added, as was evident in the one win, one tie, and one loss one loss season ending.

Inexperience plagued the team, but with 13 returning letterman, next year promises to be a "much better season," claimed Coach Chaney.

Despite the disappointing record, Coach Chaney pointed out that the scores have been really deceiving. "We lost some close games but some others we didn't even come mentally prepared for," he concluded.

"Welcoming a new coach and a new team into the batter's box."

With four returning players the JV girls softball team welcomed a new coach and a new team into the batters box.

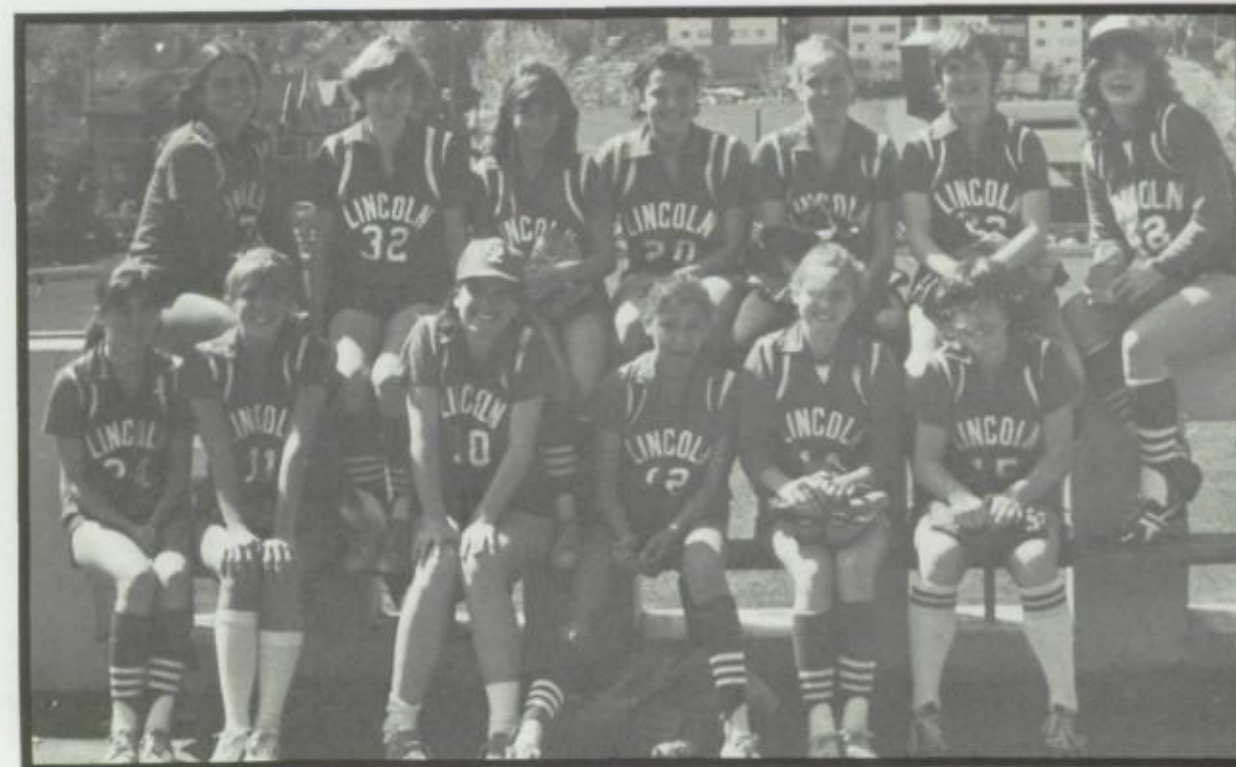

Beth Shalimar a Lincoln graduate of 1980 obtained the title as coach for a "young but strong team."

"She was pretty tough on us at first, but things got easier," according to Linn Goldsby, returning sophomore.

The season went "alright" for the girls with a final record of 5 wins and 9 losses.

The four returning players were Lucy Ames, Linn Goldsby, Team Caprain Charlene McFaul, and Jennifer Hosxey, who moved up to varsity for the last few games.

"The girls worked very hard, but the season just didn't end in our favor," said Coach Shalimar.

Coach Paul

"This season was a learning experience for all concerned. There was outstanding individual efforts, but not the consistency we were striving for."

The Varsity Baseball Team felt they had a chance at state, but as the season wore on, they found themselves slowly being left behind the other PIL teams. They finished the season with a 7-13 league record, and finished fifth in the PIL West.

The team suffered a loss of four senior players from last year. However, coach Mark Paul felt the non success of the team was due to it's "inability to play catch, too many mental errors, and the inability to play ball for seven innings straight."

Despite their record coach Paul felt they did improve with each game. Senior Jay Dyer agreed, adding "We could just never seem to get it together."

Those who made first team all-district were: seniors Steve Briggs, Nick Hastings, and Jay Dyer. Second team: senior Howard Kennedy and juniors Rob Davis and Cam Fajer. Junior Scott Kellar made honorable mention.

A few strong pitchers plus good fielding and hitting skills ended the season on a high note.

The J.V. baseball team finished the season with a disappointing 3-8 league record. However, they ended the season on a high note, defeating Roosevelt 8 to 5.

According to coach Tom Thomas, the team had good fielding and hitting skills, plus a few strong pitchers. However, there was a lack of attendance at practices and some of the best players were benched during games due to their delinquency.

Cited as the teams best pitchers were; Devin McLaughlin, Matt Green, Todd Allen, and David Arer. Players cited for their hitting ability were Eric Rystadr, Craig Armstrong, and Green.

The outlook for next year is good. According to coach Thomas, those who will move up from the freshmen team will greatly improve the team.

The freshmen baseball team finished the season with a 6-8 league record, and held the best winning percentage of the three Lincoln baseball teams.

The young Cards began the season with 16 players and finished with only 11. "They were the ones who really wanted to play," commented first-year coach Tom Paul.

According to coach Paul, their best game was against Madison. "They're the best team in the league and we beat 'em," he said with pride. The score was 11 to 1.

Cited as outstanding players were Steve McKinnon, Jerry Dory, and Paul Kym. Coach Paul is looking forward to next year and is confident. "The future looks good, they're just learning," he remarked.

"I expected them to do very well but maybe not that well."

The Varsity girl's track team swept the district meet, beating closest rival Jackson, by a 158½-112½ score. It was the third consecutive PIL West championship and their last since the league will merge with the PIL East next year.

Although there were no finalists at the state meet in Eugene, nine girls were sent to state. They were: freshmen Shannon Lucas, Bev Anderson, and Laura Landauer; sophomores Sheila Ater, Jenny Kennedy and Gail Verdurmen; and seniors Carolyn Barber, Denise Sachs, and Ginny Murphy.

According to Coach Nicholas, the outlook for next year is excellent, due to all the young runners who will be returning. "The future holds a whole barch of girls already showing potential, coming to a peak in the next few years," he commented.

The Varsity boys track team was in the running at the district meet but the Cards were edged out by Jackson, with a 184 to 146 score.

However, ten of the runners qualified for the state meet in Eugene, and although none made it to the finals, coach Dave Nicholas was pleased that so many were able to compete at state.

"Considering the youth of the team, it was a very good year," said coach Nicholas. "The entire team, freshmen through seniors, really contributed a lot," he added.

The following competed in the state meet: seniors Russell Campbell, Neil Blair, Steve Uomini, and Jeff Kosakoff; juniors Peter Chapman, Tim Conroy, and Benjamin Sinclair; sophomores Jay Schlenuning and Barry Dennis and freshman Fred Bird.

A keen desire to learn and striving for the best accounted for many city championships.

The girls on the JV Track team were, "very keen to learn, as a matter of fact, they were dynamite!" exclaimed Coach Dave Nicholas.

The girls began their season with a loss against Madison, however, never again did they accept defeat.

Two sophomores took city championships in their respective events: Stephanie Kalez in the 800 meter and 1500 meter races, and Darby Anderson in the 3000 meter race.

"The girls never let me down," began Coach Nicholas, "they gave 100% all of the time and always strove towards their personal best."

Recognition was also given to Leslie Schaefer, Suzanne Savaria, Beth Knoll, Julie Hansen, Amy Vore, and Emily Harris, who, according to their coach, stood out in a group of a thousand.

The JV boy's beat most of their opponents and were very competitive, according to Coach Dave Nicholas. "Their performances were respectable in the city meet," he noted. Sophomore Richard Meyer took the JV City Championship title for the 800 and 1500 meter relays. Also competing in the meet were, sophomores David Bishop, Richard Whittington, and juniors Todd Vergotis, James Ferriday, and David Wesche. "The boys performed well up to and ending with the city meet," remarked Coach Nicholas. "They always strive for their best effort," he concluded.

"The freshman boys track team had a misleading record," noted Coach Dave Nicholas. They didn't lose to any teams in the district except to Madison. Two vital runners, Leron Henderson and Fred Bird, began their seasons on varsity, according to Coach Nicolas. "They could have made a big difference for the freshman team," he began. "However, it was beneficial to have them run with the varsity team."

"If we had played in a more competitive league, each player could've improved his game by at least two strokes."

The Golf team outstroked Jackson, Franklin, Marshall, Madison, and Roosevelt to win the district championship. The team, led by coach George Cheshire, consisted of mostly freshmen and juniors, with one lone senior.

The team was led by junior Kirt Danner and senior Steve Greer who placed one and two in the PIL West. Danner then went on to sweep up the PIL East also. "Since I hadn't been playing that well, I thought I would win the PIL West but not the East. The PIL East is five times as hard," Danner commented.

According to coach Cheshire, playing in a tougher league would have been beneficial. "If we played in a more competitive league, each player could've improved his game by at least two strokes," he said.

The five players sent to state were: Danner, Greer, Tom Webb, Vincent Boileau, and Kevin Considine.

The 1982 Special Olympics took place in April on the field and was a complete success, according to Odette Kermorvant, special education instructor.

Although the special ed. kids didn't win any first prizes, they won support from other students and according to Odette, "we went for more of a good time than to win."

Among the personal victories, Stanley Isaac finished the 50 meter race without stopping and as for Rich Fish's frisby throw, "he's got some class," laughed Odette.

The turnout was the largest ever according to those involved and volunteer help came from an impressive number of sources, including the Shriners, Liberty Cable, community members, and Lincoln staff and students.

However, there wasn't a 100% attendance for special ed. kids. Probably because it was held on a Sunday but those that did attend were; Henry Jaeger, Peter Houck, Linda Sue Tonole, Beth Grodem, Rich Fish, and Stanley Isaac.

Along with the student supporters that, "were really neat and helped make our kids' day," said, Odette. Other special ed. kids from the past showed up to support the event.

"It was neat seeing all the kids from last year too, some of them made good progress," reflected Julie Papas, teacher aid to the class.

Participation came from all over the city, and everyone enjoyed the sunny weather, music, and special events that began with the opening parade and ended with the traditional friendship circle.

Job and position switching on the part of Vice-Principals causes confusion within.

As with the other departments in the school, change and slight confusion were important factors in the Administrative Department.

The first major switch in the department hierarchy came when Dr. Myra Rose, substitute for Principle Mike K.J. Rumpakis during his sabbatical, was returned to her former position of Vice Principle in charge of Curriculum. Her spot was taken by Dr. Colin Karr-Morse, ex-Principle of Adams High School, closed in 1981 due to a lack of student population.

Also creating problems was the loss of Administrative Vice-Principle, Mr. Ron Dexter. His spot was filled by ex- Vice-Principle in charge of Curriculum, Mr. Luke Fiorente. The only Administrator to remain in the same position for both years was Mr. Robert Signer, Vice-Principal in charge of Guidance and Counseling.

The counseling department got off to a hectic start with the unexpected addition of over 200 students. The department smoothly handled the increase in enrollment caused by the closure of two Portland high schools, Adams and Washington Monroe. In the process, Lincoln added Ms. Joan Crosby as a counselor and administrative assistant. "The kids are extraordinary to work with, and any extra time I have I try to give to the students," she remarked.

One of the counselors' main jobs was helping students learn to solve their academic and personal problems. They also helped students develop realistic goals for the future. Emphasis was placed on educational guidance with about 75 percent of the graduating class going on four year colleges. "We are here to make sure students are going somewhere, not just leaving high school," summed up Mr. Hal Sawarsky, department chairman.

"We couldn't get along without them!" Once again the secretarial staff guided the school through a hectic year. With a huge growth of the student body, due to the closure of Washington-Monroe and Adams, there was more of everything to be done. The principal's personal secretary, Mrs. Helen Dyal, assisted teachers and took care of all mailing procedures. "I try to keep everyone happy," smiled Mrs. Dyal. The counseling secretary, Mrs. Marlys Taylor, was up to her ears in keeping up with the increase of work. The friendly voice on the receiving end of the phone belonged to Mrs. Hedy Lurhy, who also handled student records, schedule changes, and incoming transcripts. The task of all the secretaries was overwhelming; they all played an important role in keeping the school operating smoothly. "I have found Lincoln's secretarial staff to be competent, energetic, positive, and personable," was the reflection of the new principal Dr. Colin Karr-Morse.

Keeping track of every bit of written material within the school is the task that awaits the Book Services Department each year. "The job was really exhausting," noted department chairman Mrs. Helen Lund. "However, the task was lightened considerably with the addition of the electronic book detection machine installed last year."

Mrs. Ester Gross headed up the book room end of the department and took care of the lost and found. "With the increased amount of students in the building there were a lot more books checked out and a lot more things were lost," she noted. "It made everything harder."

Keeping Lincoln liveable was the job of the custodial staff. "The more students, the bigger the cleanup job," noted head custodian Don Spieghe. "And this year," he laughed, "was a mess."

"We had more students from more areas of Portland," commented Mrs. Marlene Scheickl, Foreign Language Department chairman. With the large influx of students from Washington Monroe and Adams, there was some overloading; however, the administration provided additional teacher time in order to create smaller classes. More classes created a greater diversity in the department. "The wide variety of languages we offer gives students the opportunity to expand their means of communication with others throughout the world," noted Mrs. Scheickl. Language teachers made plans for trips to the country of their particular area of study. Mr. Wilbur Pool and his group organized a study/travel tour to Russia. Dr. Madelain Habib and her students planned an excursion to France. Two trips to Mexico were planned; one with Mrs. Rose Rogers during Spring Break and one in the summer with Mr. Charles Hunsacker. English is used everyday, and the English department was ready to assist any student with their personal struggles with the language in a number of skill ranged courses, according to Mrs. Sarah Van Harlingen, department chairman. Skills in formal speaking and questioning were stressed in speech classes. "Speech class has helped me more than just speaking in front of a group, it has also helped develop my writing skills," explained junior Jennifer Crabb. Also, the appreciation of poems, plays, stories, speeches, essays, and novels was covered in the advanced classes. "It's the best English class I've ever had," reflected Quinland Porter junior, of her American Literature honors class. The program is challenging and helps prepare you for college," noted Mrs. Van Harlingen. A new addition to the staff was Ms. Pam Hall who took charge of the freshman social studies classes and an ESL social studies class.

"By taking history you get a better understanding of how the past affects us and the world around us," observed senior Jerry Brooks.

Confusion was the key word in the Art Department. It gained two teachers and a baby, lost one teacher and changed dept. heads all in one year. In the beginning Mr. Doug Morton was the dept. chairman, and Mrs. Diane Smith was the other instructor. Mr. Morton turned over his job as dept. head to Mrs. Smith and in turn when she left to have her baby, her replacement, Ms. Connie Speros-literal took over the position of dept. chairman. Mrs. Virginia Raymond, a part time teacher was also added to the staff "it's a good program, but Mr. Crosier, left a big gap," she added.

Change was the most important element in the science department last year. A stronger curriculum was in the making for the coming increase in enrollment. "Lincoln has unusually fine students," said Mr. Norton, head of the department. The major projects begun by the department were curriculum changes sighted for the coming years, according to Mr. Norton.

An addition was made to the science department last year, also. Mr. Doug Foster came to Lincoln from Wilson High School to "add to the program." "Our science program provides a substantial background for higher education and employment after high school," remarked Mr. Foster, second year science teacher. Half of the student body was enrolled in the department, according to Mr. Norton, and the years activities were geared primarily towards holding student interest. Sophomore Myle Pham noted that, "Science is fun; you learn everyday about insects and stuff like that."

"The science department is doing well, but for our success the basis is the students," concluded Mr. Norton.

The classes increased in size but, "the students seem more interested in learning and they are doing a good job," added Mrs. Schilke, a newly added business teacher. The year was confusing for those students enrolled in Dr. Thurston's classes because of the three different teachers filling in for him due to his various prolonged absences. The last teacher to hold his position was Mrs. Schilke, who took over in the third quarter. "It was too hard to keep up with the changing teaching methods," commented senior Sarah Alley, "However, they (the substitute teachers) did the best they could," she added. Mrs. Gurknecht took over the position of chairman when Mr. Thurston left. "Business skills are helpful to both college bound students and students heading for office jobs," she noted.

A strong program offering courses that help students to face the world of computer technology.

What do high SAT scores, twenty-four PET computers, and calculus classes have in common? They are all part of the Math department with the highest enrollment percentage in the district. "Our strong program offers courses at all skill levels ranging from General Math to Calculus," noted Mr. Dean Still, Department Chairman.

The addition of the PET computers gave the Computer Programing class the opportunity to become computer literate. Students learned the language BASIC (Beginners All-purpose Simple Instructional Code) to write and process programs for students needing basic skills improvement in areas of addition, decimal, and whole number operations.

"Students face a world of computer technology when they leave high school and they should have some experience with computers," concluded Mr. Allen Clancy, Computer programing teacher.

Physical education was taught in two related courses last year by two related teachers. Mr. George Cheshire was the chairman of the Health Department and the P.E. dept. was lead by Mrs. Jean Cheshire.

Health not only covered personal hygiene but, CPR, first aid, and drivers education. "CPR has aided Lincoln students many times this year, in saving lives," explained Mr. Cheshire. Health also goes outside the classroom to explore the engine of a car or to experiment. One such experiment was blindfolding students and having others guide them. This enabled them to experience the frustrations of blindness. "It was a trip," said senior Paula McKee.

P.E. gets out of the gym room and onto the field for seasonal sports, according to Mrs. Cheshire. "Physical fitness is a vital part of the health and well being of every individual," she added. According to freshman Bill Grant, "I like P.E. it gives me a chance to get out of this school."

Vinh Kieu, Phuc Truong, Naikou Soechao

Some very unique people are enrolled in the Special Education and English as a Second Language programs. Both are very hard working and achieve great goals with little encouragement.

Special Ed is taught by teacher aides directed by Odette Kermouvan and Micheal Mauzey. "It takes endurance," began Odette, "but if you keep working at it you get results." A major activity held in honor of the class was a dance at "Sachs Front Avenue." According to Alene Corno, "I liked it." "We're more than a class," explained Peggy Rix, senior, "were a day time family."

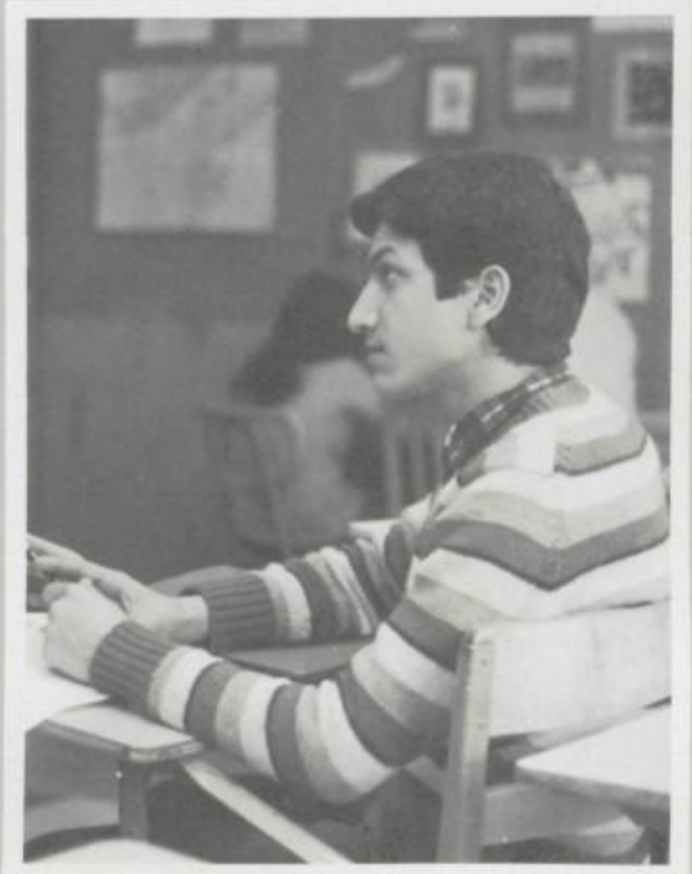

ESL students were also an important part of the school; they came from all around the world. This class benefited them by making them able to tune into the regular class room activities.

Yearbook: It's not just a job, It's an adventure.

What was the hardest thing about being on Yearbook?

"Trying to take a bunch of varied personalities and getting them to work together as a group," according to Production Editor David Case.

Copy Editor Barbary Brunner put it a different way: "Just getting it all together."

Meeting deadlines, procrastination and "a lot of other little things" were all cited as problems encountered by the twenty-nine member staff.

One of the major difficulties was trying to fit everything into the theme of the book, "FOCUS ON:" "It enabled us to incorporate our specialty, photography, into the book as a part of the theme. It's a new approach for Lincoln yearbooks and I think it was successful," summarized Photo Editor Chris Waehrer.

However, the same ease didn't come to the copy writers. "There were only four writers for the whole book, which made it really tough around deadline time," remarked Barbary.

"This year's staff has done everything—I haven't had to touch anything," commented Advisor Mr. Doug Morten. "I think that's kind of neat," he concluded.

A slim school district budget and lack of advertisement caused problems for the bi-weekly publication.

The Cardinal Times began the year with a strong bi-weekly publication, according to advisor Mr. Dave Bailey.

"Copy was abundant, but we had trouble getting enough ads to finance the paper," said Deanna Couregan, features editor for the first semester. However, with the slim budget allotted by the school district, the staff was strongly encouraged to get enough ads to continue the circulation.

The bi-weekly paper was slowed a little by the declining enthusiasm held formerly by the staff, according to Mary Peters, Editor.

"I thought working on the Cardinal Times was more of an activity than a class. I really enjoyed interviewing people and then writing a story about their experience," explained Kacy Covalt, features editor for the second semester.

Dedicated to bringing the school closer together through Deli-Nights and travel abroad.

The International Studies Center was dedicated to bringing the whole school closer together, not only those students enrolled in a foreign language but everyone, according to Ms. Suzanne Klassen, ISC co-ordinator.

ISC provided many opportunities for students to travel abroad, learn about other countries at deli-nites, and earn a credit. The countries visited were; France, Japan, Mexico and Russia. "I want to go back to Mexico City," commented, Donna Waltermath, senior. Ms. Klassen also encouraged the members to attend deli-nites with hopes of "braking down barriers between different types of people." "Hello Day" was one activity which helped bring foreign students and others together. "It was an opportunity to welcome them to a new country and a new school," she added.

"Lincoln is the leader in getting in touch with other countries in the whole world," remarked Ms. Klassen. "It's a successful program, and very beneficial."

"The rumage sale was a big success, we exceeded last year's profits and I was especially pleased with the tremendous response we received from parents, teachers, and students wanting to volunteer their time," commented Mrs. Clemmie Spicer, chairman. Along with co-chairman Mrs. Lynda Johnson, Mrs. Spicer organized the thirty-second annual PTA Ramage Sale.

Led by President Marlys Chapman the PTA put their efforts into a variety of service projects; lending financial support to various school departments, helping maintain the "Clothes Closer" for the needy, and arranging the commencement reception.

The annual Dads' Club Barbeque welcoming the fall athletes was a highlight event of the Dads' Club. Holding meetings the first Wednesday of every month the club planned various activities. Activities included, from a co-sponsoring with the PTA on a presentation covering teenage alcohol abuse to an All Sports' Banquet held in June at the Hilton hotel.

"As an official, independent group of men we offer support to programs needing our funds and our time," stated President, Mr. Robert Cameron.

Hard work, determination, ability, and motivation were the factors attributed to success.

Hard work and determination were the key factors to the success of the student body cabiner. "We really worked well together," remarked Student Body President Tim Spiekerman. "Looking back over the year I'm surprised at how much we got accomplished," he added.

Other members of the cabiner included Vice President Scott Hicks, Secretary Holly Harrison, Treasurer Peter Rasco, Student Activities Coordinator Barbary Brunner, and Historian Dan Moore.

During their term of office, the cabiner sponsored many activities that were both school and community related. Their first major undertaking of the year was the first annual "Jazz Festival", featuring the music of the "Ron Streen Trio". "The music was really outstanding," noted Scott. "It was a change from the ordinary." Their biggest project was the first annual "Human Relations Day". "It involved almost four months of preparation," noted Barbary. "In the end it all came together, but the preceeding days were really traumatic."

"This cabiner was amazing," described Mrs. Geri Stilwell, Student Activities Director. "They were a group of highly motivated, highly intelligent young people with great ability," she concluded.

A full lineup of cultural experiences: trips, tacos, crepes and lollipops.

"I think the club has been more successful than in previous years because of the high level of participation, the number of activities, and a cabinet that was willing to work," commented French Club President Nancy Downes. Other members elected to the cabinet were: Laura Michael, Vice President; Ted Le Guin, Secretary; and Andrea Meyer, Treasurer.

The club sold Advent calendars at Christmas and French lollipop-grams on Valentine's Day. Highlight activities included sponsoring a crepe booth at the Jazz Festival, dinner at Cafe du Berry, and potlucks featuring French cuisine. Club earnings were spent on books and a movie for the French department.

Spanish club members held their annual dinner at Panchos in February and worked in a Jazz Festival booth featuring tacos. "It was great, we sold all of our tacos in one hour," laughed Treasurer Dawn Foss. Cabinet officers were: President Kristen Rothenburger, Vice President Laura Strepp, Secretary Marie Hopkins, and Treasurer Dawn Foss. "Even though the club was less active this year the activities we did participate in were successful," concluded President Kristen Rothenburger.

Fundraisers to make money for shish-ka-bobs and a Reinlander dinner.

The Russian club held a bagel sale, operated a "Jazz Restival" food booth, and worked in the "Grit Shack" to raise money to attend a two-day Russian camp in Seattle, Washington. Making up the club's cabinet were President Greg Gisvold, Vice President Alice Harris, Secretary Carolyn Barber, and Treasurer Liz Kershner. "We were quite successful, but it was sometimes difficult for members to get together because of conflicting schedules," remarked Advisor Will Pool.

The events enjoyed most by the twenty-five members included having a "Pisakananki" party to decorate Easter eggs and the second annual "May Bash" shish-ka-bob picnic at Blue Lake. "We had a great year, working towards the 'Bash'," summarized President Greg Gisvold.

The German club began the year by electing Jennifer Perrin as club President and Holly Harrison as Secretary. "Deli-Nite" bake sales, a Bratwurst booth at the "Jazz Festival," and a dessert sale at the "International Concert" were successful fundraisers. The money went towards the annual dinner at the Reinlander. "The dinner turned out great and everyone had a good time; it was a fun way to wrap up the year," concluded President Jennifer Perrin.

Joining the ranks of Lincoln's interest clubs were the Japanese and Tiddle-Winks clubs. "The more new clubs the better, we need more variety," noted Junior Gillian Glass.

The fifteen-odd members of the Tiddle-Winks club formed the club based partially on the question of "If Harvard and Cambridge have Tiddle-Winks clubs, why not Lincoln?" In the game players flip small disks (winks) into a bullseye on a felt background scoring up to twenty-five points for a direct hit. The members had special positions such as Scribe and Trainer of the Wink, and Sweeper of the Felt. "Tiddle-Winks is a great American sport and I hope that the club continues its success," smiled President Ted Le Guin.

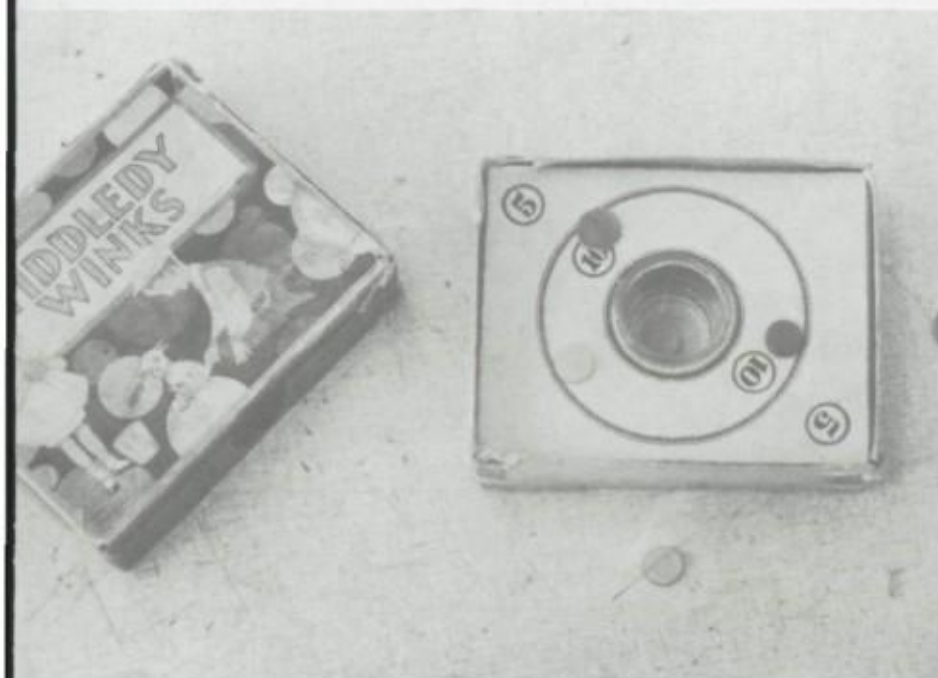

The Japanese club elected representatives: Malcolm McIver, President; Jennifer Perrin, Vice President; Kelly O'Connor, Secretary; and Sonya Griffith, Treasurer. The twenty members provided desserts at the Far East Delirium and sold "Origami" paper ornaments at Christmas time. "Japanese was the only language not represented as a club, so our biggest goal was to get the club started and build a good foundation for next year," concluded President Malcolm McIver.

Participating in a service club can be a rewarding experience

LINC and Tasque, the girls' service clubs lent their enthusiasm and efforts to a variety of community projects. The Senior club, LINC, caroled in a convalescence home around the Christmas holidays and delivered Valentines Day cards to Emanuel Hospital's childrens' wing. The group also headed Project Second Wind collecting canned food for the needy.

"Participating in a service club can be a very rewarding way to share your time with others," commented President Lisa Smith. Other officers were Kris McKinnon, Vice President; Christine Dalton, Secretary; and Janis Rosenfield, Treasurer.

TASQUE, the Junior girls' club, elected officers each semester. First semester representatives were Lesley Wygant, President; Kira Rembold, Vice President; Jennifer Chapman, Secretary; and Debby Arnold, Treasurer. Led by President Gillian Glass the second semester officers included Vice President Laurie Gamroth, Secretary Anna Jensen, and Joint Treasurers' Jennifer Glickman and Colleen Madigan. The 20-odd members purchased blue sweatshirts, held regular meetings, and sold carnations at Christmas.

"The squad worked together as a team of concerned citizens making an effort to maintain safety standards during the fire drills," commented Mr. John Quiggle, Fire Squad advisor. "I enjoyed having the opportunity of working with the diverse mixture of students that formed the squad," he continued. Taking all the necessary precautions, the six man squad checked the building during the drills and kept them running smoothly, lessening the risk to the student body.

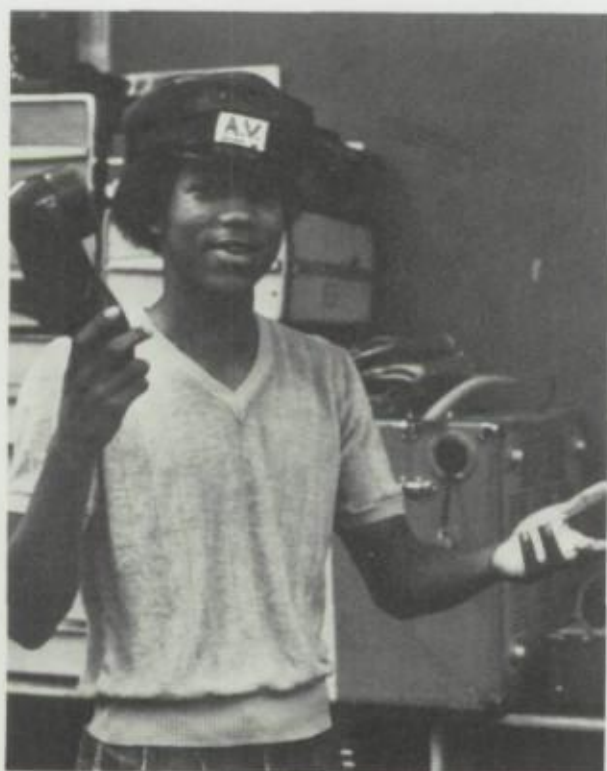

Midway through the year, however, the fire squad was dissolved and advisor Mr. John Quiggle along with other faculty members took over the responsibility of checking the building during the fire drills.

"The A.V. crew handles the audio visual needs of the school; including delivery of projectors, operation of lighting and sound equipment, and keeping the equipment in good working condition," explained A.V. coordinator Mr. Lowell Slick. The crew set up the P.A. system for athletic events and assemblies. Making videotapes of games for the sports teams to study was another responsibility.

"Being on the crew taught me how to work a lot of different kinds of equipment," concluded Eddie Jerome.

Stronger and stronger, the team proved its skills through their domination at both PFI and college meets.

"Every year the team becomes stronger and stronger," commented Speech coach Ann Moyes. The team proved the strength of the program by bringing home ten trophies from college meets, winning all the Portland Forensic League meets, and placing first in the city meet. The forty-five competing members developed speeches in poetry, serious, radio commentary, and other categories.

Highlights of the year were hosting the PFL novice meet and taking the second place sweepstakes trophy at the University of Oregon, edging out a field of seventy-five other schools competing for the honor. Capturing firsts at the meet were Captain Joelle Rankins for senior poetry and junior Heidi Freund for oratory. Senior Carla Williams, juniors Anna Jensen and Kirt Danner also placed in the finals. Blue ribbon winners at the Oregon State University meet included senior Howard Kennedy in After Dinner speaking and sophomore Erica Bollinger in Oratory.

"Being captain was a great experience, especially after watching the team work so hard for four years; it was a really rewarding season," summarized team captain Joelle Rankins.

Lack of student interest and inouth plagued Polyglot while racial bias in the student community was the ICE Club's chief concern.

The foremost goal in the minds of those on Polyglot staff was to get a book publication," commented Co-Editor Nancy Downes. "Due to lack of student input, basically because people didn't know about it, we didn't get a book out last year," she explained.

Once again, the Polyglot staff was plagued by a lack of student interest and material. "A lot of the stuff we got was good; however, I would have liked to have seen more short stories. People seem to think of the magazine as a strictly poetic publication," remarked Business Manager Barbary Brunner. Other members of the staff included Co-Editor Christie Beeman and Art Editor Julie Goodnight.

The I.C.E. club stuck to their firm commitment to eliminate racial bias. "Our purpose is to help rid the school community, and, in a greater sense, the world, of all kinds of discrimination," commented Advisor and ESSA Coordinator Mr. Tony Hopson.

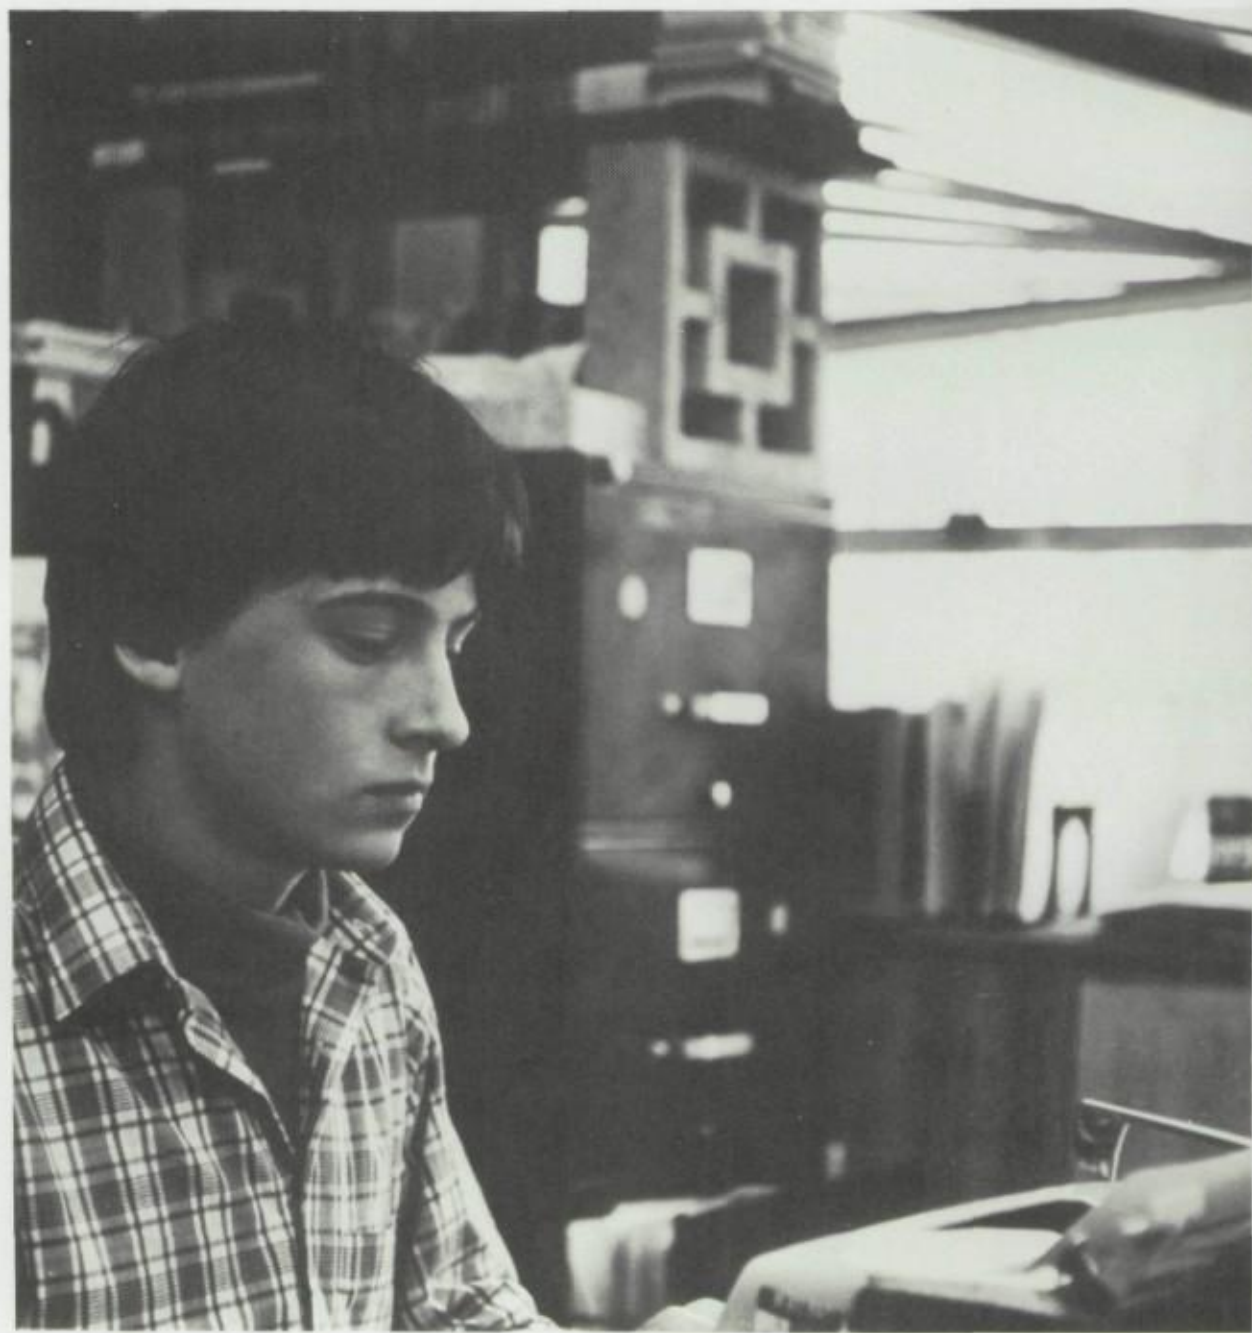

Along with their many fundraising activities, the ICE club, along with the Student Body Cabinet, sponsored "Human Relations Week". "It was very successful," noted President Jodi Reese. "I think it brought us closer to our goal."

Look out Hollywood, Here they come!

Reinstated after a one-year absence, the Drama Department found more problems than anticipated.

"Student interest hadn't died," remarked Mr. Lowell Slick, drama teacher. "But the class was only a semester long, so we'd get a production started then have to change cast members because of schedule changes."

Mr. Slick and his students set some impressive goals, but, due to a lack of student commitment, they were unable to put on many of the events they had planned.

"The biggest single problem," noted Slick, "is commitment. The students want to do it, but they aren't willing to totally commit themselves to a production."

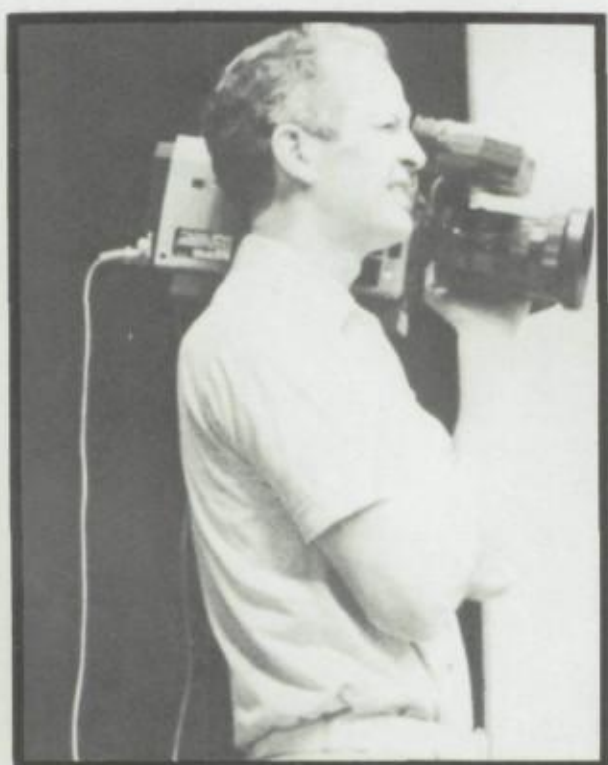

"This will be my last year in the department," he continued. "We need someone who can build the department up—who can devote themselves totally and be committed to the program."

Slick was impressed, however, with the tenacity shown by the group of twenty seniors who put on Woody Allen's GOD.

"I was really impressed by the way they took hold and put it together," he concluded.

More snow was the catalyst for a better season and strong competition against opposing teams.

The ski club, which consisted of 30 members, was headed by Coach Jim Ross, a former racer for Mt. Hood Community College.

The team practiced on Wednesday evenings and races were held every Saturday for six weeks at Timberline Lodge. Competition was against Oregon Episcopal schools, Lakeridge, and Lake Oswego. According to Mrs. Judy Campbell, ski club organizer and adviser, "It was a good league." Competition also included strong state contender Sandy and up-and-coming Wilson.

"This season was a lot better than last year, because there was so much more snow. We were able to make a lot more trips up to the mountain and could practice more," explained senior Doug Campbell.

Bones get smashed, Bodies get thrashed

Hard hitting, fan pleasing, high scoring, and bench clearing are the words used to describe the Lincoln Cardinal Hockey Club's season.

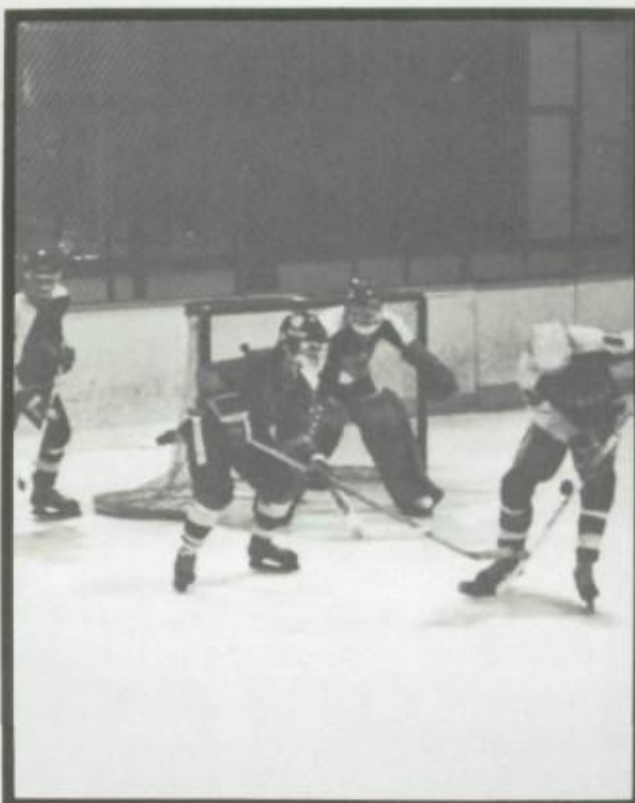

The Cards took their 11-7-2 season record to the first round play-off game against Benson and defeated the Techmen 8 to 2. The Cards then lost to Gresham 5 to 1.

According to assistant captain Peter Kirk, "The status of the team next year is still up in the air. The sport is not popular enough to become a PIL sport and due to a lack of money, the chances of continuing seem weak."

But even if there is a team, the loss of seven top players would be strongly felt. Seniors Michael Koerner, Chris Waehrer, Kirk, Doug Campbell, Russell Campbell, and Dana Sengstke were the team leaders.

Although participation was low, the freshman class got off to a good start under the leadership of President John Sterling and his cabinet. "We only experienced one major setback during the year," noted John. "This came when our secretary, Audrey VanBuskirk, left to go to Carlin." Audrey's place was filled by Missy Ruyle after a vote during a class meeting. Other cabinet members were: Marian Voorhies, Vice-President; Emily Harris, Treasurer; and Allyson Aranoff, I.C.E. Representative.

The top priority for the Freshman Class Cabinet was making money to prepare for the sponsorship of the "Birthday and Hearts" dance during their sophomore year. Their first income building scheme was a joint movie effort with the Sophomore Class Cabinet. They showed Warren Miller's "There Comes a Time" for two nights in a row. "We cleared the cost, but only one hundred people showed up each night. I wish there had been more student participation," remarked John. Their other major money-making venture was a freshman class float-decorating project for the Rose Festival. "It was a great way to earn money," commented Marian. "It took real class dedication to work on those floats throughout the night."

"Although the freshman didn't really take part in their cabinet's activities, the support and encouragement was there," concluded John.

Experience was the key to the sophomore class cabinet's success. "Most of our officers served on last year's freshman class cabinet, so we were really experienced," noted President Jack Phillips. However, there were two newcomers to student government this year: their advisors math teacher Mrs. Cade and part-time art teacher Mrs. Raymond. According to Jack, "they provided a fresh incentive and added support to the experience of the officers in making this year's sophomore cabinet a real winner."

The cabinet also included Vice-President Alice Peters, Secretary Gail Verdurmen, Treasurer Jay Schleuning, Historian Renee Gillette, Boys' Representatives Duke Chadsey and Eric Levine and Girls' Representatives Mary Massengale, Maria Schleuning and Robin Crandell.

"Despite the occasional lack of enthusiasm and support of the sophomore class we were able to do a lot," commented Jack of his cabinet's success. Most of their activities were fundraisers aimed at getting enough money to put on the "Birthday's and Heart's Dance". They sold Cardinal T-shirts and co-sponsored a Warren Miller ski movie, "There Comes A Time", with the freshman class cabinet. The real highlight of the year, however, was the Spring Fun Run followed by the class picnic. "Everyone had a lot of fun . . . it was a great way to end the year," exclaimed Ana Thompson.

"Efficiency and success" were the themes of the junior class. President Mary Ann Reilly noted, "We didn't procrastinate this year . . . everything went right on schedule." And what a schedule! The cabinet sponsored a booth at the Jazz Festival, sent Santagrams and Valentines, and held a very successful James Bond/3-D film festival along with the student body cabinet. "The film festival was great," commented junior Gillian Glass, "I thought it was a really original idea." The class topped the year off by promoting the prom featuring the Portland band "Sequel". The prom, held in the Smith Ballroom at Portland State was decorated with golden balloons and silhouetted sky scapes to enhance the theme

"Imagine All the People".

Teamwork was the secret of the junior class cabinet's success according to Mary Ann. Despite the loss of Historian Christie Edstrom, "the cabinet really worked together as a group." Other members of the cabinet were: Vice-President Peter Chapman, Secretary Barbara Massengale, Treasurer Jennifer Hoxsey, Girls' Representatives Joselyn Zivin and Mary Pat Joseph and Boys' Representatives Jamie Ferriday, Tim Conroy and Chris Middleton. "But," claimed Mary Ann, "of course we couldn't have done it without our advisor, Mr. Rogers."
